Pilot tries to rustle up numbers for CM crown

Reaches out to lawmakers in Gehlot camp; G6 holds talks with him

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

THERE was a spring in former Rajasthan deputy chief minister Sachin Pilot's step a day after it emerged that the Gandhis have chosen him as successor to Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot, who will demit office as he is the Congress first family's choice for national party president.

Gehlot, 71, agreed to step down as chief minister after Rahul Gandhi drew the red line saying the principle of one-person, one-post applied to presidentship as well. Rahul and his sister Priyanka were emphatic that Pilot would be his successor, though Gehlot fought tooth and nail to keep his bete noir away from the hot seat.

Gehlot then lobbied for his loyalist and Speaker CP Joshi to be his successor but the Gandhis rejected it. The wily Gehlot has still not thrown in the towel, claiming on Friday that his successor will be chosen through a proper process, adding the sentiment of MLAs must be kept in mind. "Sonia Gandhi and general secretary in-charge Ajay Maken will decide together," he said. With 80% of the MLAs in his camp, Gehlot hopes to force his choice at the CLP meeting whenever it is held to choose the new CM.

Pilot began his outreach to party lawmakers outside his camp. Shortly after reaching Jaipur from Kerala, he met Joshi in the Speaker's chamber along with Gehlot's close aide Dharmendra Rathod, minister Pratap Singh Khachariawas and Gujarat Congress in-charge Raghu Sharma.

Later in the day, the so-called G6, the group of six BSP MLAs who had merged with the Congress and was instrumental in saving Gehlot's chair during an intra-party rebellion, were in talks with Pilot at his house. One of the six, Rajendra Gudha, had on Thursday said they would have no problem in supporting whoever is chosen by the high command to be the next CM.

Leadership vacuum

Sources said the elevation of Gehlot was part of the Gandhi family's plan to create leadership vacuum in Rajasthan so as to render justice to Pilot, who has been waiting for long to be CM

Nomination window opens; contest could be multi-cornered

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

WITH the filing of nomination papers for the Congress presidential elections beginning on Saturday, it may not be a straight fight between Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot and Thiruvananthapuram Lok Sabha MP Shashi Tharoor after all. Quite a few names are doing the rounds for entering the fray, including that of former Union minister Manish Tewari, after the Gandhi family ruled itself out of the race.

A senior leader, who flew down to Delhi on Thursday night, said he is holding meetings with several others and weighing his options. "Everybody is exploring. It is sinking in that the Gandhi family is not interfering since Rahul Gandhi made it clear that he is not in the race," he said.

If Tewari opts to contest, votes will get divided between him and Tharoor, said a leader who was part of the G-23. Both Tharoor and Tewari were part of G-23, the ginger group that sought sweeping reforms in the party two years ago. While one G-23 section sees Tharoor as a 'compromised candidate' as he met party chief Sonia Gandhi without consulting them, another group feels his popularity may win him some extra votes.

As for Tharoor, sources close to him said he will collect his nomination papers on Saturday.

Though senior leader Digvijaya Singh said he won't contest, former Madhya Pradesh CM Kamal Nath's name is also doing the rounds.

Spokies get a gag order

The Congress asked its spokespersons to refrain from commenting on anyone in the party poll fray. The directive came a day after spokesperson Gourav Vallabh dissed Tharoor

S'mogga accused tried to push IS agenda: SP

MARX TEJASWI @ Shivamogga

TWO accused — Maaz Muneer Ahmad and Sayed Yaseen — arrested under UAPA in Shivamogga, were hatching a conspiracy to further the activities of the banned terrorist organisation Islamic State (IS), and to disturb unity, security and sovereignty of the country, the police claimed.

Shivamogga Superintendent of Police B M Laxmi Prasad said on Friday that the accused had procured bomb-making materials from an e-commerce platform and local shops. Since Yaseen is an electrical engineer, he knows how the relay circuit works and bought timer relay circuits from the e-commerce platform. The accused also procured two 9V batteries, switches, wires, matchboxes and other materials in Shivamogga.

The SP said the accused used the banks of Tunga river near Gurupura for trial blasts. Shariq had sent crypto-currencies to accused to make bombs. "After many trials, they wanted to carry out major bomb blasts against 'non-believers'," the SP said. Several gadgets, including 14 mobile phones and two laptops, besides bomb making materials, were seized. The police said the motive of the accused came to light during their probe into the stabbing of a 20-year-old cloth shop worker on Independence Day. P6

THE Karnataka High Court on Friday permitted the state government to issue an order to consider the 'Root Mean Square' (RMS) methodology suggested by the panel, headed by Vice Chairman of Karnataka State Higher Education Council Dr B Thimme Gowda, to deduct by an average of 6 marks in Physics, 5 in Chemistry and 7 in Mathematics for 'normalisation' of marks for the students who have passed the second PUC in 2021 and consider their second PU marks along with the CET-2022 marks in a 50:50 ratio to determine the rank afresh for the CET-2022.

IN THE HC

The KEA would prepare fresh ranking for the candidates of CET-2022, for both second PU batch in 2021 and 2022, after the normalisation of CET repeaters' marks, for admission to UG engineering and technology courses.

A division bench of Acting Chief Justice Alok Aradhe and Justice S Vishwajith Shetty passed the order with the CET-2022 repeaters agreeing for the 'normalisation' of their second PU marks of 2021.

With this, the court disposed of the appeals filed by the KEA and state government challenging the order passed by the single judge on September 3, 2022 who had set aside the ranks of CET repeaters without considering their second PU marks in 2021 without an exam.

New KCET ranks to be released on Sept 29

NAMRATA SINDWANI
@Bengaluru

FOLLOWING the Karnataka High Court's judgement on Friday morning on the Karnataka Common Entrance Test (KCET) rank issue, the new ranks are expected to be released by September 29 and counselling to start from October 3.

The High Court has accepted the government's proposal to reissue the ranks for PU II students who graduated in 2020-21, where six marks in physics, five marks in chemistry and seven marks in mathematics would be cut out of the total 100 marks of the qualifying examination for 'normalisation' of marks for 2021 repeaters.

Higher Education Minister Dr CN Ashwath Narayan said the revised ranking list will be released on September 29 and the counselling process will start from October 3.

Ramya S, executive director, Karnataka Examination Authority (KEA), told The New Indian Express that they expect to release the new ranks by next week and start counselling soon after. She said counselling will not take much time and should be completed in a month.

Nikitha M, a KCET repeat student, said she is not satisfied with the deduction of marks as it will cause a big variation in her ranking.

Amit Agrawal, a fresher, said, "It's a compromise for freshers. We are not completely happy with the 44:50 ratio. With the promise of increased number of seats, we hope not to lose out on good colleges which was as per the original ranking. But the matter has ended anyway, and counselling will start soon."

A few students said the decision is acceptable as the grace marks have been deducted from the repeaters' board marks which was the cause of all problems. The proposed 10 percent increase in seats will also be beneficial for students, a fresher added. They want the counselling process to be hastened to ensure that the colleges start by October.

Unified body to streamline urban mobility comes a step closer

Bengaluru: The state government tabled the Bengaluru Metropolitan Land Transport Authority Bill, 2022, which envisions constituting the authority to regulate the development, operation, maintenance, monitoring, supervision of urban mobility under one umbrella, in the Assembly on Friday. The Bengaluru Metropolitan Land Transport Authority has been proposed to be set up as there is an overlap of the responsibilities and functions with multiple agencies such as BDA, BMTC, BBMP, BMRCL, and transport departments following independent norms that impede planning and implementation of major transportation schemes. The authority will aim to streamline and improve urban mobility. The National Urban Transport Policy lays down a framework for integration of various functions of institutions and departments to enable holistic planning, the bill noted. ENS

SC sets date for Karanth Layout tendering

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

THE Supreme Court ordered Bangalore Development Authority to complete the tendering process for formation of the Dr Shivaram Karanth Layout by the end of September.

A total of 25,000 sites are planned on 2,250 acres of land acquired so far. The direction was given by Justice S Abdul Nazeer and Justice Sanjiv Khanna on Thursday, while hearing the ongoing case between BDA and the State of Karnataka and Others. BDA has also been asked to present its status report to the court on or before October 10.

The bench also agreed to grant BDA the four weeks it sought to complete the process of taking over possession of 45 acres and 17.25 guntas required for connectivity within the layout, according to the order. A senior BDA official said BDA required this land to provide roads across Karanth Layout.

Asked if BDA would be able to meet the deadline, a senior official said that tenders of Rs 2,475 crore to create the layout have already been called for. "The technical round is on. A meeting has been called on September 27 in connection with financial bids, and it could be finalised within the next two days. Generally, it would be placed before the BDA Board for its consent," he added. However, due to the SC deadline, the chairman's consent would be taken to approve the final bidders, the official said.

Asked if BDA would go ahead with the allotment of sites before the formation, the official said since the layout was being formed after the RERA came into effect, allotment could not go ahead without its consent. "We are looking at readying the layout and then approaching RERA. So, we are looking at calling for tenders by the new year," he added.

The SC also asked BDA to file an affidavit, explaining what happened to the previous sites held by allottees whose names figure in the 22nd report of the court-appointed Justice A V Chandrashekar Committee. They were all allotted alternative sites.

ON day 11 of its encroachment clearance drive, the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) engaged its staff in carrying out a survey and marking in flood-hit Mahadevapura zone. The Palike said it has identified a new encroached property and carried out markings, with help from Revenue Department officials.

The BBMP officials reached another apartment, Fern City in Doddanekundi, on Friday and said once the marking is completed, the next course of action will be decided.

Meanwhile, the Palike continued its drive in Papaiah Reddy Layout and Greenwood Regency on Sarjapura Road.

The work on clearing the slab on a gutter near Greenwood Regency on Sarjapur Road is in progress. "Today the drive continued only at two places as priority was given to the survey," an official said.

Constitutional Club: AAP raises queries

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai's instructions to start the process for the controversial 'Constitution Club' at Balabrooie Guesthouse, has come in for some sharp criticism.

"It is normal that any applicant who has the desire to start a club would be asked by the government on the 'Constitutional' activities they have conducted for the past 15 years, and why legislators want an exclusive Constitutional Club," AAP leader Brijesh Kalappa told reporters on Friday.

He said that Vidhana Soudha has at least eight big halls and a lawn which can hold over 1,000 people, and the Legislators' Home has five big halls, in addition to the government guesthouse Kumara Krupa, which has 4 to 5 large halls. He asked what activities have been conducted so far that befits a Constitution Club.

He mocked them, saying, "It is, therefore, obvious that the club is meant for unconstitutional activities rather than constitutional activities." He also reminded people that Prime Minister Modi speaks of "revdi culture" which involves political freebies, and asked if the club was not part of "revdi culture"?

24TH September : Another week draws to a close – or is it a beginning? Astrology doesn't actually believe in final endings to anything, as the moment one phase of existence comes to an end, another is born. This is a process which happens every second of our lives, constantly taking us into the future along a path which is partly laid out for us, but which we also create ourselves.

ARIES
(Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
There may now be little point in holding further discussions or meetings until the balance of power has shifted and close associates and partners are prepared to adopt a more flexible stance. You're in an ambitious mood, anxious to do well and come first.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 - May 21)
Others may force you to accept certain terms or arrangements that are not entirely to your liking. However, there is plenty of room for negotiation and partners will be happy to modify their plans if asked. All you have to do is find the right way to approach them.

GEMINI
(May 22 - June 21)
News received from an unexpected source may make your weekend. However, the only real shocks may arise from the spiralling costs of your social plans, or from other very necessary spending. Actually, it's a useful moment for pinning down partners and sorting out family finances.

CANCER
(June 22 - July 23)
Once you decide that enough is enough you can display a determination that belies your usual accommodating reputation. If you feel ignored and side-lined, then don't worry: before very much longer, partners will be deeply impressed by your amazing achievements.

LEO
(July 24 - Aug. 23)
Your caring and loyal nature is not in doubt. However, you must live up to other people's image of you if you are not to let them down. It is you who is in control at home, so you may have to shoulder more responsibility than usual. But that's no bad thing!

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
There is nothing wrong with self-interest, but you are now afforded a tremendous opportunity to show just how utterly selfless you can be when the circumstances are right. It's time to exercise your charitable instincts, doing your valuable bit for the big, wide world.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Something or someone is bound to encourage you to take off and make the most of your current advantages. Do whatever you can to attain a greater degree of personal freedom, keeping your responsibilities to a minimum. The last thing you want to do now is over-commit yourself.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You now have a perfect opportunity to confess your real feelings. This may mean apologising to one particular person, or telling someone else that you love them. You owe such honesty to yourself, and you might find that the consequences are much to your liking.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You have studied the information, facts and figures but what is really important is how you feel about particular people or individual issues. Act in accordance with your instincts and hunches, and you may open doors and shed new light on an old problem.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Certain associates seem to believe that they can pull the wool over your eyes. However, gullible as you may be over some things, you are well aware of the true situation and how to make the most of your resources. These people will be surprised when you stand up for yourself.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
In many respects this is a peculiar phase for emotional and family ties, but there may be nothing unusual about this. If you want a peaceful day you must take other people's wishes fully into account. Otherwise, they'll badger and bamboozle you until you do.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Come what may, you must get all your chores and tasks completed. Boring as it may be, this is a busy day and the accent is on trivia rather than excitement. Finances may require juggling if you are to make ends meet, but then, that's nothing new!

HC notice to state, RUPSA on weight of school bags

It has severe physical effects on growing children, says petitioner

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Friday issued notice to the Principal Secretary, Department of Primary and Secondary Education and Recognised Unaided Private Schools Association (RUPSA) on a public interest litigation seeking directives to take action to minimise the weight of school bags carried by students of primary schools across the state.

A division bench of acting Chief Justice Alok Aradhe and Justice S Vishwajith Shetty issued notice after hearing the petition filed by high court advocate L Ramesh Naik, who sought directives to the state and RUPSA to implement in true letter and spirit, the 'Policy on School Bag-2020' framed by the Government of India, to reduce the weight of school bags carried by primary school children.

The policy was framed pursuant to a Madras High Court judgment in 2018, which set the cap on the weight of the school bag to be carried by students of different classes, from Class 1 to 12. The Ministry of Education issued an order dated November 24, 2020, to all states and Union Territories to implement the policy, especially to reduce the weight of school bags, the petitioner added.

He stated that various studies by health experts say that heavy school bags are a serious threat to the health and well-being of students. It has severe physical effects on growing children which can cause damage to their vertebral column and knees. Any inaction on the part of the state to reduce the weight of the school bags violates the fundamental right of children, enshrined in Article 21 of the Constitution, he pleaded.

Frivolous plea: HC slaps ₹5 lakh fine

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court imposed Rs 5 lakh cost on advocate P Mohan Chandra from Panjigar House in Sullia taluk, for wasting public time by filing a frivolous appeal against a single-judge order on the appointment of the Chief Information Commissioner and Information Commissioner.

Observing that it is axiomatic that the appellant has not approached court with clean hands and is guilty of suppression of material facts, a division bench of Justice B Veerappa and Justice KS Hemalekha dismissed the appeal filed by Mohan Chandra and directed him to deposit the cost with the Advocates' Association of Bangalore. Mohan Chandra disclosed that he is a practicing advocate while dictating the judgment, the bench added.

An appeal was filed by Mohan Chandra, an aspirant for the post of Chief Information Commissioner and Information Commissioner, pursuant to the state government notification dated August 7, 2018, challenging the order dated April 21, 2022, passed by the single judge dismissing the petition filed by him against the appointment of respondents -- NC Srinivas as Chief Information Commissioner, SM Somashekara and KP Manjunatha as State Information Commissioners.

The division bench said the respondents have been selected by the Selection Committee taking into consideration their eminence in public life. In the absence of any better qualification possessed by the appellant, he cannot contend that the selection of respondents is bad. The appellant is unnecessarily harassing the respondents who have been appointed legally, in terms of provisions of the Right to Information Act, 2005, the division bench added.

"...in recent years there has emerged a trend of filing speculative litigations before various courts, not just in the court of first instance, but also in High Court as well as before Supreme Court. It is the duty of the courts to ensure that such litigations be weeded out at the first instance...," said the division bench.

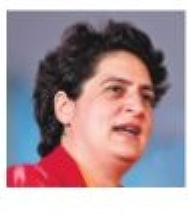
Biggies from both national parties to descend on state in the run-up to 2023 elections

Sonia, Priyanka to join Rahul's yatra in K'taka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

CONGRESS president Sonia Gandhi and party senior leader Priyanka Gandhi Vadra will take part in the 'Bharat Jodo Yatra', being led by Rahul Gandhi, when it is passing through the state. "We will announce the dates of their participation in the coming days," said party national general secretaries KC Venugopal and state in-charge Rajdeep Sing Surjewala here on Friday. The two leaders reviewed preparation for the Karnataka phase of the yatra, which will start in Gundlupet at 9 am on September 30. "On October 2 , we are organising a Gandhi Jayanti programme at Badanavalu village in Nanjangud taluk, about 20 km away from Mysuru that is known for its khadi and gramodyog units. The yatra will take a break for two days because of Dasara celebrations. Towards the end, a massive public meeting will be held in Ballari," they said.



Block Congress presidents, District Congress Committees members, defeated candidates and their supporters will join the walk with Rahul. Eminent personalities, civil society leaders, artists, industrialists and thinkers will be accommodated, they said.

The party has requested people from Mysuru, which is the largest city on the yatra route, to take part in the march from 7 am onwards. "For the last decade, BJP and Sangh Parivar have only been tarnishing the image of Rahul. But people now know who Rahul is and this yatra will be a turning point in Indian politics," Venugopal said.

On the PayCM campaign, he said the party is only taking up a genuine issue raised by the Contractors' Association. "The people of Karnataka are saying this is one of the most corrupt governments they have seen," he added. Congress workers are not scared of arrests and they will raise the issue again and again, he added.

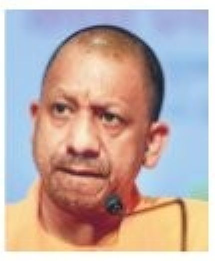
Surjewala said, "This is a scam a day government."

Yogi to open KR Pet Kumbh Mela in October

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

AHEAD of the 2023 Assembly elections, BJP is roping in Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath to strengthen its base in the state, especially in Old Mysuru and Bengaluru regions. Sports Minister Narayana Gowda has invited Yogi to his constituency KR Pet in Mandya district to inaugurate the Mahakumbh Mela at the confluence of the Cauvery, Hemavathi and Lakshmana Teertha rivers on October 16. Gowda was in UP recently to invite Yogi.

Yogi was in Bengaluru a few weeks ago to inaugurate the 'Kshemavana' of Dharmasthala Manjunatheshwara Institute of Naturopathy and Yogic Sciences at Nelamangala.



With just a few months left for the Assembly elections, BJP is trying to fight off many controversies, including allegations of corruption and law and order issues. Over the last few weeks, several BJP central leaders, including Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Union Home Minister Amit Shah, party national president JP Nadda and other ministers have visited Karnataka to attend various government programmes.

BJP sources said Yogi is also expected to visit Karnataka almost every month over the next few months in the run-up to the 2023 polls. "He (Yogi) has a large number of followers here and it matters for BJP. Yogi has a charm and a pan-India image which will work in favour of the party in Karnataka," a BJP source said. "It is not just Yogi's speeches, but his development strategies, helped the party increase its tally in the 2022 UP polls. In Karnataka, after BS Yediyurappa stepped down as CM, the party is not sure about retaining its vote share in Karnataka," the source added.

BJP state general secretary and MLC N Ravi Kumar said people are "inspired and influenced by Yogi". "There is a demand from party workers as well as the public to invite him. He will come," he added.

THE shop worker was stabbed following communal tension over a portrait of VD Savarkar in Shivamogga. The police had arrested four, including main accused Zabiulla. They said another accused Shariq Soppugudde, who is absconding, had a role in radicalising Zabiulla.

The SP said the two accused, along with Shariq, are members of ISIS' Telegram official media channel, Al-Hayat. "When Shariq is arrested, we will know if the accused were in direct contact with ISIS or others Yaseen is studying electrical engineering and Maaz mechanical engineering. Shariq is a BCom dropout," the SP said. "Yaseen met Shariq through Maaz. Congress has no moral right to talk about corruption: CM

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai carried out a scathing attack on the Congress, which is running the 'PayCM' and '40% commission' campaign against the BJP government, saying the party had no moral right to talk about corruption.

Speaking to media persons after the 10-day joint session of the State Legislature here on Friday, Bommai said the Congress had scams in each step. "The BJP had released a book on its (Congress') corruption. Being corrupt, they are running a campaign against corruption. Let them do anything, ultimately truth will always triumph. It thinks that saying a lie repeatedly will become truth but people know the truth," he said.

Terming the contractors' association a Congress-sponsored association, Bommai said it had written the letter a year ago but had not provided even a piece of evidence.

Further, Bommai charged that Congress, instead of producing any proof, had indulged in making "hit and run" allegations. " Siddaramaiah must say who has given 40% commission. We were ready to listen and hence sat in the House for the whole day. Seeing their behaviour today gave a feeling that there was no unanimity among them," he added. He said the PSI recruitment scam raised by the Opposition has boomeranged on them.

Surjewala, Siddu, DKS paste posters in protest

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

TAKING the 'PayCM' campaign to the next level, senior Congress leaders, including AICC General Secretary Randeep Singh Surjewala, Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah, KPCC president DK Shivakumar and other leaders pasted the "PayCM-40% commission" posters on Race Course Road on Friday. Congress leaders were protesting against the arrest of party's social media team members involved in the campaign on Thursday.

Surjewala said it is not a Congress, but a people's campaign. "It is for accountability and transparency in Karnataka, and the service of the people. This government serves only a few who are mired in corruption. We will throw out the BJP government and place the Congress government, which will be accountable, honest and transparent."

Siddaramaiah said, "Contractors are ready to submit all the evidence if a judicial investigation is initiated."

Ruling, Opposition members fight in Council over Manippady report

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

OBJECTING to the way the government tabled the Anwar Manippady report on alleged irregularities in Wakf properties, the Opposition alleged that the government had failed in keeping the contents of the report a secret before it was tabled. Treasury and Opposition benches in the Council displayed placards and entered the well.

As the government had tabled the report and BJP member N Ravi Kumar had taken the names of a few Congress leaders allegedly involved in the scam, Opposition leader BK Hariprasad said while the report was not even shared with the members, how did a BJP member get the details, including names of those involved. He demanded an adjournment motion.

JDS LP leader SL Bhogegowda said they accepted the report, but said the government has failed to maintain its contents a secret. Protem Chairman Raghunath Rao Malkapure said no discussion will be allowed before the Q&A session. Later, again Hariprasad raised the matter. Malkapure directed the government to distribute a copy to each member.

As the chairman proceeded to take up the Bills, the Opposition demanded a discussion on the 40% commission allegation, which led to a pandemonium. Congress members entered the well holding placards against the government and were joined by JDS members while BJP members also displayed posters against the Congress. Amidst the chaos, four Bills were passed. As the Bills were passed, even the BJP members protested and the chairman adjourned the House sine die.

JDS raises BMS Trust issue, demand Ashwath's resignation

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE Assembly was adjourned sine die after a dharna by JDS MLAs, led by former chief minister HD Kumaraswamy, demanding a probe against Higher Education Minister Dr CN Ashwath Narayan for approving an amendment to change the Bengaluru-based BMS Educational Trust into a public entity from a private trust.

JDS members stormed into the well and demanded the resignation of the minister. Speaker Vishweshwar Hegde Kageri adjourned the House and held a meeting with CM Basavaraj Bommai, Kumaraswamy and Opposition leader Siddaramaiah. But it did not arrive at any solution as the government was not ready for a probe.

When the House resumed, JDS MLAs continued their protest and the speaker adjourned it. Ashwath said the amendment was passed after the advocate-general's opinion. There is no question of a probe. "Ragini, the wife of BS Narayan — the founder-donor-trustee, has won cases against the government in civil court, High Court and Supreme Court," he justified.

Kumaraswamy on Thursday questioned the manner in which Dayanand Pai was appointed a lifetime Trustee. "Why did the minister appoint Dr A Khadar Pasha, a joint director, to probe the irregularities which helped Ragini and Pai to come to an understanding to share the professional course seats through an MoU," he asked. "What is the conspiracy behind not acting on the letters of trustees who officiated on behalf of the government — IAS officer Dr N Manjula and retired IAS officer Madangopal, highlighting the irregularities in the Trust," he tweeted.

None of BJP MLAs supported Ashwath. Former CM BS Yediyurappa, who was a signatory to the order granting approval to BMS trus, remained silent. Kumaraswamy said, "I will write to the PM furnishing all documents. A complaint will be lodged with Lokayukta."

Bommai: Cabinet expansion after discussion with top brass

BENGALURU: CM Bommai on Friday said the cabinet will be expanded soon after discussions with party central leaders. He said the issue has already been brought to the notice of central leaders and they have assured him of finalising the names soon. They were waiting for the session to end and the exercise, he added. "The process will be completed within a few days after seeking permission from the central leadership," he added. The exercise has been pending for a long time. ENS

It's final! State anthem to be of 2-and-a-half minutes

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

AFTER a span of 17 years, the Karnataka government has finally finalised the duration of the state anthem - 'Jaya Bharatha Jananiya Tanujaathe' - penned by Rashtrakavi Kuvempu. Kannada and Culture Minister Sunil Kumar said the government has approved singing the late Mysuru Ananthaswamy's version in 2.30 minutes. The minister said the H R Leelavathi Committee formed by the state government last September to look into the matter has also suggested singing all the lines of the anthem without repetition and humming in the beginning. The committee submitted its report to the Minister Sunil Kumar, which was then approved by CM Basavaraj Bommai on Friday.

The Naada Geethe was officially declared as the state anthem in 2004. However, it is sung in different styles and tunes and which makes the duration lengthy sometimes.

While some sang the version of music composer Ananthaswamy, others followed late musician C Ashwath's composition. The singing duration ranged from from 1.30 minutes to 8 minutes. There were demands from various quarters to shorten it and to bring uniformity in the singing style.

Successive governments have long been discussing the issue at length, but no final decision was taken. Since 2004, at least five governments have come and gone. In September last year, the Bommai government constituted HR Leelavathi Committee which includes literary figures like Doddarangegowda. The report of this committee was accepted on Friday.

COMMITTEES AND RECOMMENDATIONS

2006: Writer Vasanth Kanakapure Committee was constituted, but he passed away

2014: Channaveera Kanavi Committee recommended fixing the duration to 1.5 minutes

2019: Kannada Sahitya Parishat (KSP) Committee, headed by Manu Baligar, recommended the duration to be be 2.30 minutes. But it was not implemented

2022: HR Leelavathi Committee also suggested 2.30 minutes which has been accepted

RBI MUST NOT UPSET GROWTH PACE WHILE MANAGING RUPEE ROUT

The Indian rupee fell to a heart-sinking low of 81 against the dollar on Friday, forcing analysts to warn the exchange rate's run towards 82. The US Federal Reserve (Fed) rate hike that sent the dollar to a 20-year high and the rupee to an all-time low drives the current rout. The RBI is expected to sell dollars and alleviate the depreciating pressure on the rupee. The central bank has been at it since the start of 2022, when the dollar-euro pair put relentless pressure on all currencies, particularly emerging markets. While Governor Shaktikanta Das maintained the RBI doesn't target a particular level for the rupee, he assured markets of 'zero tolerance' against the rupee's volatile and bumpy movements. The government, too, isn't apprehensive about the weakening rupee seeing global market dynamics as a stabiliser of import and export disparity.

So far, the RBI has spent nearly $90 billion, reducing forex reserves from $642 billion to about $550 billion, translating to nine months of import cover as against 16 months. The war chest was put in place precisely to counter tough times, but unlike China or Japan, whose reserves are built on trade surpluses, ours were built on foreign capital inflows, often accumulated when the Fed cuts rates (like last year), and depleted during rate hikes (like now). The rupee has already lost nearly 7% against the dollar and is facing pressure due to inflation, widening current account deficit, geopolitical events and tightening liquidity conditions. While persistent high inflation weakens the rupee, hurting growth and export competitiveness, capital flows and associated exchange rate fluctuations affect macroeconomic and financial stability.

It's also essential to understand that the rupee breaching past 81 against the dollar is the nominal exchange rate. Even if we acknowledge the dollar's dominance, the fair value and external competitiveness of the Indian currency are best determined using the real effective exchange rate pegged to a basket of 40 currencies. Currently, it shows the rupee as overvalued by at least 5–5.5%, indicating room for further depreciation. Das is confident that India's underlying fundamentals 'are strong and resilient' with foreign exchange reserves 'adequate'. Yet, the RBI finds itself in a dreadful monetary policy trilemma of simultaneously managing the rupee rout, capital flows and inflation without upsetting growth.

NON-GANDHI CHIEF MAY BE NEW POWER CENTRE

As nominations for electing a new Congress president begin today, the Gandhi family has left little doubt that no one from among them would be in the fray—and Rajasthan chief minister Ashok Gehlot has their blessings as a candidate. If elected, which appears certain, Gehlot will join the illustrious league of Mahatma Gandhi, Jawaharlal Nehru, Subhas Chandra Bose, Vallabhbhai Patel, Abul Kalam Azad, and Indira Gandhi, among others who headed the party in the past. For the last five decades, since Indira Gandhi's ascension to the top, the Congress has remained in the hands of the Gandhi family, barring a few short stints. Sonia Gandhi has held the party reins for over two decades. This has resulted in the Gandhis being accused of pursuing dynastic politics.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi has made 'dynasty versus a common man' his pet political platform. It has given him rich dividends. A chaiwaala taking on the privileged Gandhis was a theme that saw the teeming millions aligning themselves with the underdog, giving him a huge success. It is not out of any sense of sacrifice that the Gandhis have decided to give up the top party job. The changing political calculus has forced them to step back—a strategic retreat. But the façade of holding a fair organisational election blew up even before Gehlot could file his nomination, with the family insisting on getting him to give up the chief ministership in lieu of its backing. Gehlot is keen on keeping the chief ministership. But Rahul Gandhi has insisted that the party would follow the principle of one-man-one-post. This makes it clear where real power still lies in the Congress. With actions like this, the family would continue to face the allegation of backseat driving and running the party through their proxy.

The election of a non-Gandhi, however, is sure to create another power centre in the party. A vast number of Congress workers would be able to meet and interact with their president. This would make them feel involved in the decision-making and has the potential to galvanise the party. Poll strategist Prashant Kishor had famously told the Gandhis that 65% of the country's district Congress presidents had not met the party president. Gehlot's arrival at the helm would open the party president's doors for Congress functionaries.

QUICK TAKE

DISCARDING COLONIAL BAGGAGE

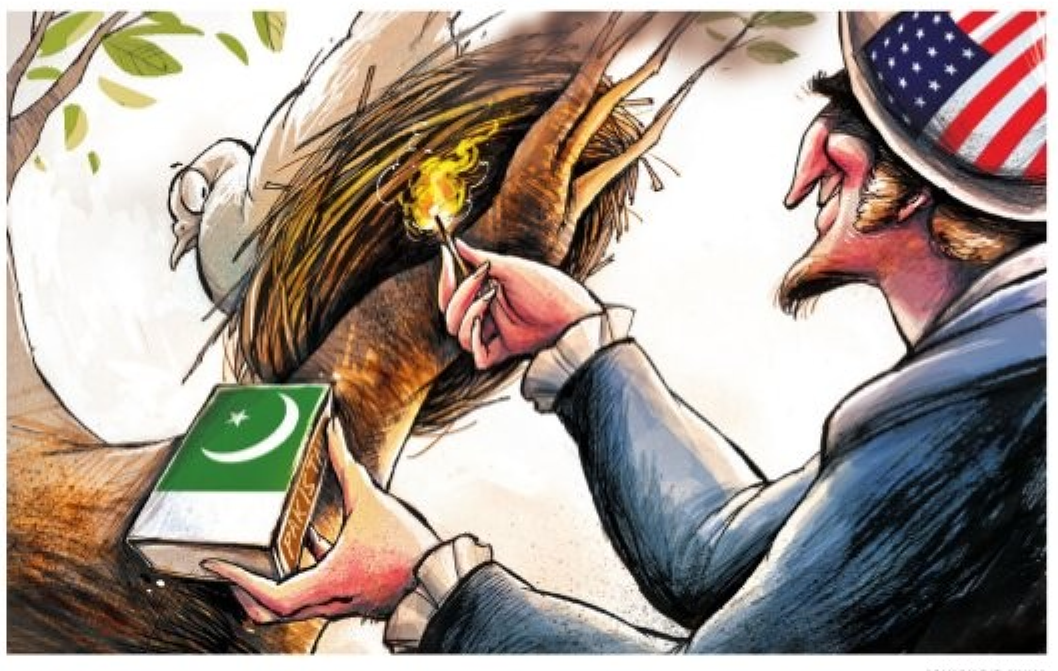
The call is to determine how colonial the army's traditions are. But isn't the army Indian already? The Indian Constitution has borrowed from Britain, the country's former colonial master. That has not made it less Indian. Before hurriedly tinkering with colonial traditions, it is essential to realise the ramifications for soldiers who live and die by them. Traditions have interwoven with history over centuries, and untangling them is difficult. And merely replacing British-sounding names or banning forks and knives is paying lip service to national sentiment. That said, do caste-based regiments in a secular army reflect the highest Indianised traditions?

The US says it expected India to understand its position on the Pakistan deal. New Delhi has no such expectation

WHY US SPARES FOR PAK F-16s DAMPEN REGIONAL PEACE

N SATHIYA MOORTHY

Policy analyst and commentator



SOUMYADIP SINHA

Coming as it does amid apparently thawing border tensions between India and China, the US decision to 'sell' $450-million worth of spares for the ageing F-16 fleet of Pakistan Air Force (PAF) has the potential to disturb current attempts at regional peace in the region. It does not mean to impact the quick disengagement of Indian and Chinese forces from two more border points in the aftermath of the 2020 Galwan episode. But it does indicate the eerie similarity between the American and Chinese attitudes towards India where matters of exercising their influence in the sub-continent are concerned.

The US decision reminds India of the difference between the nation's Cold War-era strategic relations with the erstwhile Soviet Union and the present one with China. The Soviet Union acknowledged South Asia and the abutting IOR as India's 'traditional sphere of influence' and acted accordingly. Habituated to Cold War practices vis-à-vis India, the US, like China, does not consider the region as 'India's traditional sphere of influence'. Hence, it is unable and unwilling to act as the Soviets did.

Between the two, China, before making plain its ambitions for the region in a big way, had its media mouthpieces propagate its stand that the 'Indian Ocean is not India's ocean', even while claiming that the South and East China Seas were China's own. The US has been more sophisticated. Washington lets its actions speak for themselves. This has been so even after India and the US signed the first-ever defence cooperation pact in 2005 and followed it up with many more upgraded ones.

Washington says it expected India to understand its position on F-16 spares for Pakistan. New Delhi has no such expectation or understanding. India also feels cheated because the US, as always, had not taken it into confidence beforehand. In the past, the Soviet Union failed to keep India abreast of its ill-fated occupation of Afghanistan—and the nation itself collapsed in the process.

India understands the region better than outsiders, even in matters of the West's 'democratic considerations' in tagging nations as 'evil forces', more pronounced than in the past. New Delhi's understanding of the matter goes beyond India's strategic and security concerns.

The US failure in Afghanistan is a case in point. Suppose people in Washington are in the habit of contemplating. In that case, they will get their current answers from the past: Why did successive governments in New Delhi not yield to American pressures to put 'Indian boots' on the ground in Afghanistan?

Despite all the educational opportunities and jobs in the US, the Indian street opinion too can change. It will pressure New Delhi, independent of Prime Minister Narendra Modi and his proven domestic popularity and his pull also among the NRI community in that country. There are inherent limitations to 'managing' governments in other nations, making a habit of its success in the short-term and losing out completely in the end.

Even without it all, the India-China-Pakistan triangle, as a geo-strategic region, has been heating up over the post-Cold War decades without anyone acknowledging it. The increasing assertiveness of Iran, and the inability of an America-backed Iraq to measure up, matter. The western world feels comfortable not wanting to think or rethink the Syrian conundrum. For them, the Ukraine War provides an unintelligently intellectual escape route for their conscience.

Imagine a situation where there is peace between India and Pakistan/China that is both measurable and sustainable; the whole geopolitics of the region changes overnight. It is easier said than done, but in the current context, no one should be surprised if, for instance, someone in the Kremlin is stealthily overworking his grey cells to try and help it happen. India does not tolerate the idea of trilateral consultations on bilateral issues.

In what should be seen as an ambitious plan to revive the Soviet superpower legacy, that too in the midst of the Ukraine War, where fortunes have been swinging, Russian President Vladimir Putin unveiled a new foreign policy for a 'Russian World'. The 31-page document says that Moscow should increase cooperation with China, India and the Slavic nations, apart from further strengthening ties with West Asia, Latin America and Africa.

In New Delhi recently, Russian Ambassador Denis Alipov declared that a Russia-India-China (RIC) trilateral had 'incredible potential for cooperation'. He did not elaborate but did not stop there, either. Alipov said that the RIC approach was very different from the policy of some powers, which 'purposefully misuse' disagreements between India and China. No marks for guessing which powers the Russian envoy had in mind.

Coming as it did in the context of Pakistan Prime Minister Shehbhaz Sharif's declaration that the Kashmir issue with India had to be resolved through non-military means, the US announcement on F-16 spares could be a spoiler of sorts. It may even be argued that Pakistan needed to negotiate peace with India from a position of relative military strength—equity if not equality. It does not wash. Instead, such a course could tip Rawalpindi's military establishment one up on Islamabad's political leadership if the latter had any intention for peace. Whenever Pakistan had acquired American military assistance, it had deployed them as much against India as against the intended target, if any. Of this, there was only one through the Cold War years: the 'occupying' Soviet forces in Afghanistan. On all other occasions, the US funding and arming of Pakistan were aimed only at India, and so was the end-use of those weapons. The 'Bangladesh War' (1971) is a memorable example.

Even without the American refit for Pakistan's F-16, there is enough cause for tension in the region, with the latter's 'all-weather friend' China pushing up the mercury all around India. It was evidenced in the 'Galwan episode' on India's northern land border and the more recent controversy involving Chinese research/spy vessel Yuan Wang 5's port call at Hambantota, Sri Lanka, in the South. It thus seems to be a return to the old days and ways for the US—even while proclaiming India as a friend and ally, and Pakistan as a terror-hotspot.

GDP DOESN'T ALWAYS TELL THE TRUE STORY

KAJAL BASU

Veteran journalist

An increase in real GDP is interpreted as an unequivocal thumbs-up that an economy is doing well. But, extruding from the command rooms of gifted political players, annual growth stats can be misleading. Quarterly growth stats do not stand up to prima facie scrutiny, either.

Take the GDP of 13.5% for the first quarter of this year. Every pundit, economist, and financial institution had predicted a double-digit growth for the quarter. The RBI had forecast a growth of 16.1%. The GDP growth of 20.1% in Q1 2021 had been absurdly stellar but understandable, thanks to 2020's low-low growth base established by the stringent lockdowns.

In effect, 13.5% (2022) is standing on the shoulders of 20.1% (2021), which stood on the drooping shoulders of -23.9% (2020). It's a rickety totem pole of iffy numbers. A quarter as crummy as Q1 2020 was the perfect storm to hit the "GDP-ism"—a cautionary word coined by Swiss economist Jean-Pierre Lehmann—that India suffers from but would have the world believe is its super strength.

A 13.5% growth is exceptionally high—almost double the economist's dream of a yearly 7%—and wobbles upon scrutiny of its contributing data. In point of fact, the 2022 growth rate is a mere 3.8% above the 2019 pre-pandemic level.

This year, Government Final Consumption Expenditure has fallen to 11.2% from 12.6% last year. Manufacturing stands at 4.8%, a tenth of the 49% during the same quarter last year. In mining, the first quarter's gross value added (GVA) growth is 6.5%, a third of the 18% a year ago. The GVA growth in construction is 16.8%, less than a fourth of the 71.3% last year. Contact-sensitive sectors like trade and hotels slid from 34.3% in 2021 to 25.7% this year.

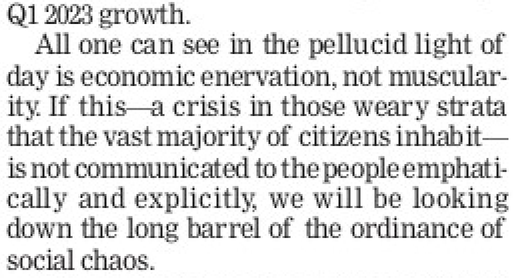
Beyond all these mystifying stats is a truism: that a growing economy is flagged by a quarterly GDP that is higher than the preceding quarter's. It is also axiomatic that if a quarter's GDP is less than the previous one's by even a tittle, then the economy is shrinking. There's no argument that can morph it into a positive.

The 2020 growth rate (the average of its quarters) was -7.3%—the consequence of a gobsmacking first-quarter growth rate of -23.9%. In 2021, the quarters contracted from a high of 20.1% (Q1) to 8.4% (Q2) to 0.4% (Q3) to 1.6% (Q4). 2022 began with a banzai 13.5%, but the RBI anticipates a cascading slowdown in the remaining three quarters: 6.2% in Q2, 4.1% in Q3, and 4% in Q4.

India is using anomalously high Q1 growth to boost the following three low quarters and then smugly posting a high yearly average—this is unsustainable prestidigitation. Economists know that the 2020 low-base benefit is not infinitely exploitable. Amply cautious, therefore, FII forecasts are not accounting for a high Q1 2023 growth.

All one can see in the pellucid light of day is economic enervation, not muscularity. If this—a crisis in those weary strata that the vast majority of citizens inhabit—is not communicated to the people emphatically and explicitly, we will be looking down the long barrel of the ordinance of social chaos.

But governments, across ideological divides, do not like to be saddled with tumult, no matter that it might be of their own making. One of the ways of avoiding the pain of arithmetical truth is 'Datenmassierung', or data-massaging. All governments do this.



PIC: P JAWAHAR

It is comforting to realise that flaky data (and even opaque incrementation and decrementation by decimals) is vulnerable to expert inspection. The problem is that the other kind of data-massaging, beloved of politicians—the camouflaging of worrisome numbers in the demagoguery of sanguinity—is less pregnable. The Indian citizen is routinely blitzed by deceptive media gung-ho hard-selling tweaked data. Over the past eight years, the aam janata has been inundated by data that it doubts but has learnt to live with.

Attempts to 'improve' data almost always end up excluding, altering, retrofitting, or refashioning data. The impulse and the incentive here are political, not economic.

In fact, data-massaging in the service of policymaking is fundamentally anti-economy. Wrong, or wrongly aggregated, GDP statistics—are akin to a falsified growth trajectory in a corporate chart: they will, eventually, run the establishment into the ground. Monkeying numerically with the economy ends up making it jump through political hoops. Maintaining data deception calls for more and more lies, until they finally clump up and clog the river's flow—and the economic flowchart.

The flow of composited big bad data overwhelms everything not only downstream but also backflows ruinously upstream. If the super mountain of bytes known as the GDP is erroneous, or has been manipulated, every single thing that has referenced it will be faulty: fund allocations, microeconomic understanding, capital expenditure, policies big and small. And this is for starters.

In the background, however, lurks a bigger, more fundamental doubt about the nature and purpose of GDP. Senior economic journalist David Pilling wrote: "The beauty of gross domestic product is its single figure. It squishes all of human activity into a couple of digits, like a frog jammed into a matchbox." How can the GDP of even stable, small, superlative economies approximate that infinitely complex thing called wellbeing? American economist Simon Kuznets, who, in 1937, presented the original GDP formulation to the US Congress, did not conceive of GDP as anything more than a number representing economic production by government, companies, and individuals.

He also warned, nearly three decades later: "Distinctions must be kept in mind between quantity and quality of growth, between its costs and return, and between the short and the long term. Goals for more growth should specify more growth of what and for what."

India is guilty of two things: thinking that national wellness can be inferred, to quote Kuznets again, "from a measurement of national income" (GDP); and what Joseph Stiglitz called the "fetishisation of GDP".

Whither Cong ideology

Apropos of It's an ideological post: Rahul's advice to new Congress head (Sept 23). Is the ideology of the Congress Party still relevant today? The BJP is working really hard to propagate its ideology and bring citizens together. I think the Congress is now lacking an ideology that can do the same. The high command and the new Congress leader must first focus on the ideology of the party to keep it alive.

B'luru demolition

Apropos of Demolition drive avoids high-end villas (Sept 23). Today, Bengaluru is a bustling IT hub. It is also home to many lakes. But owing to population growth and rapid urbanisation, illegal constructions sprung up. Today, if the city is in a mess, it is because of that very corruption and illegal activity.

Tithi Trivedi, Ujjain

Middle class sorrow

The demolition drive has affected middle class families who saw the golden dream of owning their homes. Although some demolitions are justified, the focus must be on taking action against corrupt BBMP officials and other authorities who gave their stamp of approval to construct buildings on water bodies. Otherwise, these demolitions will be a mere eyewash, without the root problem being solved.

Apropos of Nationwide crackdown on PFI, 106 arrested (Sept 23). The nation is waiting for an end to such anti-national organisations that are functioning behind a façade of a neo-social movement. This is worrying since Kerala has reported several instances of radicalised Muslim youth who want to go to Syria and Afghanistan in the name of Islamic jihad.

PFI's motives revealed

The surgical strike-like action by the NIA and ED against PFI establishments across India have revealed the true face of PFI. It is nothing but a radical Muslim organisation that advocates jihad to mislead the youth of the country. It is neither concerned about the welfare of the community nor is it bothered about India's development and progress.

'Russia in sync with Modi on Ukraine'

Russian envoy to India says that Putin himself shared his wish with PM Modi on ending war

YESHI SELI @New Delhi

RUSSIA is completely in sync with what Prime Minister, Narendra Modi who said In Samakarkand on sidelines of SCO summit that today is not the era of war, Russian ambassador to India, Denis Alipov said on Friday.

"Also, President Vladimir Putin told PM Modi that he himself wants to end the war. However, the West is trying to misconstrue this and take it out of context. Russia too wants to end the war, and our approach doesn't differ from that of India as we too want cessation of violence. Having said that there is unbreakable friendship between our two nations," said Alipov, adding that Russia both the countries want a peaceful end to conflict in Ukraine.

India and Russia have strong defence, energy ties and they are continuing to grow. However, Russia is categoric that those countries who follow the US proposal of an oil cap won't be permitted to buy oil from them.

"If we consider the prices are not fair and unacceptable to us, we would simply stop supplying the oil to global markets and to those countries that join the US initiative on the price cap," Alipov said at a press conference here.

> President Putin told PM Modi that he himself wants to end the war. However, the West is trying to misconstrue this... Russia too wants to end the war, and our approach doesn't differ from that of India.
>
> Denis Alipov, Russian ambassador

He said Russia would not follow any mechanism detrimental to its trade interests.

With sanctions imposed by western nations making scant impact on Russia, the G-7 countries and the European Union have mooted an oil price cap on Russian crude and refined products to limit Kremlin's revenues.

Earlier this month, a statement issued by G-7 Finance Ministers said the price cap was specifically designed to reduce Russian revenues and its ability to fund the Ukraine war.

Alipov said the price cap will lead to acute shortage of oil in the global markets and the price would sharply go up.

The US has asked India to join the coalition to cap the prices of Russian oil, but New Delhi has said it would "carefully examine" the proposal before taking any decision. Since the outbreak of the conflict in Ukraine, there have been constant references on Rupee Rubal trade, which has also been under speculation.

"As far as India and Russia are concerned we have followed the Rupee Rubal payment mechanism since 2014 for defence cooperation and we can consider expanding this mechanism to cover other sectors," Alipov added.

Alipov also spoke about a Russia, India, China cooperation and referred to it as a trilateral which can be enhanced through dialogue. He also spoke about developing an atmosphere of goodwill, cooperation and trust between India and China, however regarding the boundary issues between the two nations he said it was best left for the two of them to resolve.

"The issues between India, China are bilateral and we do not want to get involved in this. We would encourage them to find a quick resolution to the border dispute," he added.

Meanwhile, regarding the conflict in Ukraine, he said that Russia is prepared to end the conflict as President Putin told PM Modi in Samarkand.

"We do not want to occupy Ukraine. We only want to secure our interest in the overall security situation. Atrocities have been done by Ukraine on Russian speaking population. The referendums that have begun today are only in sync with self determination. It is upto them on whether they want to stay in Ukraine, or not," Alipov added.

He also said that Russia supports India's full membership at UNSC.

Army instals radar at 15,000 feet in North Sikkim to predict avalanche

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

IN a move to save precious lives of the troops, the Indian Army and Defence Geoinformatics and Research Establishment (DGRE) have jointly installed the Avalanche Monitoring Radar in North Sikkim. The radar was inaugurated by Lieutenant General Tarn Kumar Aich, General Officer Commanding TriShakti Corps on 20 September 2022 at one of the Forward Posts of the Indian Army deployed at an altitude of 15,000 feet in North Sikkim.

"This radar, a first of its kind in India, has the capability to detect avalanches within three seconds of its trigger and will assist in saving valuable life of troops and reducing damage to property in Super High Altitude Areas," said the Army.

Evincing hope that in an area where frequency of triggering of avalanches are high, the installation of the first Avalanche Radar will go a long way in safeguarding the life of troops of the Indian Army deployed in harsh terrain and sub zero temperatures, the Army added, "while at the same time limiting damage to vehicles and equipments operating at such snowbound High Altitudes Areas."

The avalanche radar was made operational by DGRE of DRDO, an organisation which is involved in forecasting and mitigation of avalanche hazards faced by the Indian Army in the Himalayan Region. This radar uses a series of short micro wave pulses which are scattered at the target and can detect an avalanche in under 3 seconds. The radar can permanently scan the targeted slope for avalanche release and track the path of the avalanche and its size in case it is triggered, the army added.

SC to hear Art 370 pleas after Dussehra

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

AFTER a long hiatus, the Supreme Court is likely to hear the case challenging the constitutionality of the abrogation of Article 370 of the Constitution which granted special status to the state of Jammu and Kashmir after Dussehra break.

Pursuant to taking note of the submissions of a counsel that the abrogation of the said article was an important constitutional issue a bench led by CJI UU Lalit on Friday said, "We'll certainly list that. All mentioning slips come before me. We'll certainly do that."

In wake of the amendments, many petitions were filed before the Supreme Court, praying that the Presidential Orders issued under Article 370, repealing the special status of the Jammu and Kashmir, and the J&K (Reorganisation) Act, 2019, be declared as unconstitutional. One of the pleas averred that it was "striking at the heart of the principles on which the State of J&K had integrated".

The hearing commenced on December 10, 2019 - four months after the repeal of the J&K special status - before a Constitution Bench comprising Justices N V Ramana (now retired), SK Kaul, R Subhash Reddy, B R Gavai and Surya Kant.

During the course of hearings that took place before the Constitution Bench, some of the petitioners sought for the reference of the matter to a 7-judge Bench in light of the contrasting opinions expressed by two coordinate benches of the Supreme Court in the cases of Prem Nath Kaul and Sampath Prakash.

Vide a judgement dated March 2, 2020, the Constitution Bench held that there was no need to refer the matter regarding the challenging to the Presidential Orders issued under Article 370 to a larger Bench.

Since 2nd March 2020, there have been no signs of the listing of the pleas on Article 370. From the last week of March, the Supreme Court went into a virtual lockdown, in view of the COVID-19 pandemic, and only urgent matters were being taken up via video-conferencing.

Graft case: SC stays probe against BSY

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

IN a relief to veteran BJP leader and former Karnataka CM B S Yediyurappa, the Supreme Court on Friday stayed the investigation initiated by the Lokayukta police against him and his family into allegations that they accepted Rs 12.5 crore as bribe to get a project sanctioned by Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) for Ramalingam Construction Company Private Limited .

While staying further proceedings, a bench of Justices D Y Chandrachud and Hima Kohli also issued notice on Yediyurappa's plea challenging Karnataka High Court's order of restoring a private complaint against him and his family members, filed by social activist T J Abraham. "There shall be a stay on proceedings as far as the petitioner is concerned," the bench said in its order.

For Yediyurappa, Senior Advocate Mukul Rohatgi and Siddhartha Dave stressed the fact that the sanction for prosecution against the former CM was turned down by Governor Vajubhai Vala on June 23, 2021.

While allowing Abraham's plea, Justice S Sunil Dutt Yadav of the Karnataka HC said that the rejection of sanction for prosecution would not come in the way of continuance of proceedings.

CATASTROPHE FOR CATTLE

Several states across the country are dealing with a viral epidemic of lumpy skin disease, which has placed officials on high alert. Here is a look at the disease and its dangerous contours

WHAT IS LUMPY SKIN DISEASE?

Lumpy Skin disease is a contagious viral disease that spreads among cattle through mosquitoes, flies, lice and wasps by direct contact, as also through contaminated food and water. There is no evidence of transmission from cattle to humans.

SYMPTOMS

Include high fever, reduced milk production, skin nodules, loss of appetite, increased nasal discharge and watery eyes, too much of salivation and discharge of water from eyes and nose and formation of nodules on the body.

IS IT SAFE TO CONSUME MILK?

According to officials, it is safe to consume milk from infected cattle as it is a non-zoonotic disease. However, milk production gets hit in the infected animal, depending on the severity of the illness and the immunity level of the animal.

IS THERE A VACCINE FOR LUMPY SKIN DISEASE?

On August 10, India launched the indigenous vaccine Lumpi-ProVac to protect livestock from the viral disease. The vaccine has been developed by the National Equine Research Center, Hisar (Haryana), in collaboration with the Indian Veterinary Research Institute, Izzatnagar (Bareilly). Currently, the government is providing goat pox vaccines to prevent the disease from spreading.

2022 OUTBREAK DIFFERENT FROM 2019

A study conducted by scientists at the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research-Institute of Genomics and Integrative Biology (CSIR-IGIB) and the State Disease Diagnostic Centre, Jaipur has found that the disease this time is structurally different from the version of the virus prevalent in India in 2019, raising questions on whether the new vaccine being developed for safeguarding cattle may be adequately protective.

DANGER TO DAIRY

The disease has raised serious concerns over its impact on the dairy business. India is the world's largest milk producer at about 210 million tonnes annually.

I&B ministry withdraws permission to Zee for uplinking in Ku-Band

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

THE ministry of information and broadcasting (I&B) on Friday withdrew the permission given to Zee Media Corporation Ltd (ZMCL) for uplinking of 10 television channels in the Ku-Band, a frequency used on GSAT-15 Satellite used for satellite television broadcasting. Because of the uplinking facility in the Ku-Bank, all 10 channels were accessible on Doordarshan (DD) Free Dish, which was a competitive advantage to ZMCL over other private broadcasters.

The channels are Zee Hindustan, Zee Rajasthan, Zee Punjab Haryana Himachal, Zee Bihar Jharkhand, Zee Madhya Pradesh Chhattisgarh, Zee Uttar Pradesh Uttarakhand, Zee Salam, Zee 24 Kalak, Zee 24 Taas and Zee Odisha (now Zee Delhi NCR Haryana). They were originally permitted to operate on C-Band, also a frequency, by the ministry. According to the officials, revocation aims to level playing field.

"Zee media had taken dual transmission approval for uplinking both in Ku-band and C-band and due to co-location of transponders of Dish TV (of Zee) and DD Free Dish on the same satellite, ZMCL got the advantage to be on DD Free Dish without paying for the huge auction fee while other broadcasters were paying to be on DD Free Dish," said ministry officials.

In its order, issued on Friday, pertaining to withdrawal of permission, the ministry said that it had received references from Prasar Bharati, public broadcaster, and many private broadcasters regarding this unfair advantage to ZMCL due to permission of simultaneous uplinking of 10 TV channels on Ku-Band in addition to uplinking in C-Band. Some channels have been complaining to the ministry in this regard for a long time.

Seeking permission for uplinking on Ku-Bank, ZMCL had given justification that many operators don't own or operate a C-Band receiving dish of four meters (16 feet) due to their location — crowded locales —, where such installations are not possible. It further mentioned Ku-Band allows smaller dish antennas hence installation is cheaper, easy and it incurs lesser terrestrial interference. Hence, permission was granted. However, subsequently, it came to the notice of the ministry that the 10 channels in question were getting available on DD Free Dish.

Probe officers' role in cattle smuggling: BSF court

CHANDAN NANDY @New Delhi

LESS than a month before Trinamool Congress (TMC) strongman Anubrata Mondal was arrested by the CBI on August 11, a BSF staff court of inquiry (SCOI) against a commandant recommended investigations into the "suspected involvement of senior ranking officers" in cattle smuggling on the India-Bangladesh in South Bengal between 2015 and 17, according to official documents.

As an influential leader from Birbhum in West Bengal, Mondal was said to have been in league with several senior BSF officers who were suspected to have been involved in cattle smuggling during their posting at the BSF's headquarters in Delhi, Kolkata and field stations under the paramilitary force's Eastern Command.

The SCOI's recommendations emerge from its proceedings against Satish Kumar, who was commandant of the BSF's 20th and 36th battalions between 2015 and 2017. The CBI's Anti-Corruption Branch (ACB) registered a case against Kumar on September 21, 2020, before arresting him on November 17 the same year. He was arrested for "his alleged involvement/direct nexus with cattle smuggler Mohammad Enamul Haque".

TMC strongman said to be hand-in-glove with BSF

An influential TMC leader from Birbhum in West Bengal, Mondal was said to have been in league with several senior BSF officers who were suspected to have been deeply involved in cattle smuggling during their posting at the BSF's headquarters in Delhi, Kolkata and field stations under the paramilitary force's Eastern Command

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) also arrested Kumar on April 23, 2022. He has been at Tihar Jail since May 3, 2022. He was charged for "possession of disproportionate assets as well as misuse of official powers". According to the SCOI document, it was "prima facie revealed that Shri Satish Kumar, Commandant, amassed huge assets in the form of immovable properties" between April 2011 and November 2020.

The SCOI document says that "rampant cattle smuggling activities" took place in the jurisdictional areas of the BSF's 20th and 36th battalions but remained "unnoticed by DIG Malda and Deputy Commandant (G) Malda". This, the document says, "could not have taken place without tacit involvement of senior officers of the BSF in the chain of command and without support of field/ground BSF officials i.e. Coy Comdrs/Post Comdrs and the G and Vigilance staff concerned".

More recently, Kumar is said to have revealed to the CBI the names of several senior officers who were allegedly involved in cattle smuggling. The list of senior officers alleged to have been involved in and abetting cattle smuggling is said to be "about 25", including IPS officers on deputation to the BSF.

While recommending initiation of "disciplinary action" in accordance with the 1968 BSF Act, the SCOI advised that a "senior officer of the rank of DIG may kindly be detailed to investigate the suspected involvement of…senior BSF officers in the above cattle smuggling case as IO (investigating officer), ACB, CBI, Kolkata, has submitted in his report that other BSF officials are also suspected to be involved in cattle smuggling activities during the period from 2015 to 2017".

Pic of Shinde son sitting in CM's chair goes viral

Not official residence, he reiterates as oppn says keep dignity of CM chair

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

A picture of Maharashtra CM Eknath Shinde's son Shrikant sitting in the CM's chair has gone viral, drawing Opposition barbs that Shrikant is a 'super CM' and that he should respect the dignity of the chair.

Shrikant Shinde is a Lok Sabha MP. "The Opposition is trying to malign my image. The place in the photo is our private residence in Thane, where my father and I have attended people's problems for years. It is not an official residence of the CM nor his government office," said Shrikant.

He said he was a two-term MP and was aware of the protocol. "Today, the CM had a video conference, for which the 'Maharashtra government' board was kept behind the chair, but I did not know that. Someone has done mischief by secretly clicking photos and sharing them," said the CM's son.

In the picture, Shrikant Shinde, the MP from Kalyan, is seen sitting in a chair. Behind him there is a board with "Maharashtra Government-Chief Minister" written on it.

In an apparent jibe at Shiv Sena chief Uddhav Thackeray, he also said his father works for 18 to 20 hours a day, and "unlike earlier chief ministers who sat in one place, he is always on the move." Thackeray had faced criticism for rarely stepping out of home when he was chief minister during the coronavirus pandemic.

The state NCP's youth wing leader Ravi Varpe shared the viral picture on social media. "Best wishes to Shrikant Shinde for becoming the super CM. In the absence of the Chief Minister, his son is in charge of the CM's post. What kind of Raj Dharma is this?''

Varpe claimed that the photo that he had uploaded in his tweet was from the CM's official residence. "The chief minister is busy at Ganapati Mandals the responsibility of seeing the work of other people in the state has been given to Srikant Shinde," he said.

Meanwhile, Shiv Sena MLC and spokesperson Manisha Kayande also criticised the CM over the viral picture.

No permission to minister's Europe tour

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chandigarh

DAYS after a row erupted over Punjab CM Bhagwant Mann's alleged deplaning in Germany over being inebriated, the Centre has declined "political clearance" to a Punjab minister's nine-day trip to Germany, Belgium and the Netherlands.

Sources said state's New and Renewable Energy Minister Aman Arora was to leave on Sept 24 on the trip at the invitation of the Indo-German Energy Forum. The Union Ministry of New and Renewable Energy had apparently cleared 13 names from eight states and five Central government organisations to participate in the event. However, the final list cleared by the Ministry of External Affairs had only 11 names, as political clearance to Arora and an Assam IAS officer was denied, sources added.

"We were supposed to take part in discussions on solutions to pollution and straw burning in Punjab," Arora said.

Punjab guv, AAP spar over spl Assembly session

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

A day after the AAP-led Punjab government fixed Sept 27 for a one-day special session following the withdrawal of the Governor's permission for such a session on Sept 22, the Governor on Friday sought details of the legislative business in the proposed session.

"A letter from the Governor's office has been addressed to the Secretary, Punjab Vidhan Sabha, seeking details of the legislative business to be taken up in the proposed assembly session on Sept 27,'' stated a statement issued by the Governor's office.

Political experts believe that calling for a special one-day session will not help AAP in any way. They say such a move will indirectly strengthen the BJP prospects in both Himachal Pradesh and Gujarat where assembly polls are due in a couple of months.

Dr Jagrup Singh Sekhon, political analyst in Guru Nanak Dev University, said, "It is all drama being enacted by AAP and BJP to divert the people's attention from core issues. The drama enacted by AAP will undermine its image. There is no need for CM Mann to dance to the tunes of his masters.''

He said such "theatrics" would ultimately help BJP indirectly and marginalise the Congress in the two poll-bound states pretty much on the lines of Uttarakhand and Goa.

"There is no need to call for a special session to prove the loyalty of 92 AAP MLAs. If the government wants, it should call for a full-fledged session and discuss issues related to the state, be it law and order, stubble burning and the SYL water-sharing,'' says Sekhon.

Observers also point out that the proposed session will not be a smooth sail for AAP as the Congress and SAD will raise all issues related to the state, especially the controversy over CM Mann being "deplaned" from a flight at Frankfurt.

The state cabinet on Thursday approved a recommendation to the Governor for the summoning of the session on September 27.

Health dept to engage 'first time responders'

The state health department is preparing a big plan for the healthcare sector and is now planning to create "first-time respondents" in interior areas – who will be able to reach out to people for immediate relief in any distress situation in rough hilly terrains. Dr Rajesh Kumar, secretary in-charge of the department, said that there is a lot of problem of medical system in remote areas. In such a situation, two options are being explored. The first is the landing arrangement of helicopters and the second is to prepare a 'first time responder' in the village itself. On which the roadmap is being made with all the officials of the department.

Modi flays 'urban Naxals' for stalling progress in Guj

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA
@ Ahmedabad

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Friday accused "urban Naxals and anti-development elements with political backing" of stalling various development projects in Gujarat.

He said that such groups had opposed the Sardar Sarovar dam by orchestrating a campaign against it.

"Huge money was wasted because of the delay in executing the project. Now, when the dam is complete, you can judge how dubious their claims were," said Modi. He added that these groups took crores of rupees from global organisations to hinder development in India.

Modi was addressing environment ministers of various states after virtually inaugurating a national conference in Gujarat's Narmada district via video-conference.

Pointing out "conspiracies" due to which the World Bank had refused loan to increase the dam height, he said, "It took some time to thwart these conspiracies, but the people came out victorious. The dam was described as a threat to the environment. Today, it has become synonymous with environmental protection," he said.

The PM also asked people to stay alert against the extreme left-leaning urban Naxals. "I urge you to ensure that projects aimed at bringing ease of doing business or ease of living do not get unnecessarily stalled in the name of the environment. We must have a balanced approach to counter the conspiracy of such people," he said.

Earlier, Gujarat Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel and Union Home Minister Amit Shah had targeted Medha Patkar, the founder member of the Narmada Bachao Andolan, for showing "farcical environmental concerns" to obstruct development projects.

Shah on Sept 4 while inaugurating a function in Ahmedabad had said, "Some people have made fresh attempts to give Patkar a backdoor entry into politics. I'd like to ask the youth if they would allow those who opposed the development of Gujarat to enter the state."

BJP neta's son held for killing woman staffer at his resort

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

A BJP leader's son was among the three people arrested on Friday for allegedly killing a 19-year-old girl working as a receptionist at a resort near Rishikesh. The girl, who was missing for five days, worked at the resort owned by Pulkit Arya, the son of former minister Vinod Arya. The victim's family had approached the police over her disappearance. The police, after interrogating the resort staff and checking CCTV footage, arrested Pulkit, resort manager Ankit Gupta and Saurabh Bhaskar.

According to sources, the victim's WhatsApp chats with a friend hint that she was under stress over some demands made by the resort operators.

The accused told the police that on Sept 18, Pulkit had an argument with the girl, following which all of them went to Rishikesh to lighten the mood, sources said. They said that she used to defame them, and during a heated exchange, they pushed her after which she fell into the canal, police said. A search is on for the body.

After the news spread, local residents surrounded the jeep carrying the accused, and broke the vehicle glass. The resort was also vandalised.

Meanwhile, Leader of Opposition Yashpal Arya said law and order situation is deteriorating in the state.

HC allows Uddhav-led Shiv Sena to hold Dussehra rally at Shivaji Park

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

IN a setback to Maharashtra CM Eknath Shinde on Friday, the Bombay High Court allowed Uddhav Thackeray-led Shiv Sena to hold the annual Dussehra rally at Shivaji Park, Dadar on Oct 5 in Mumbai.

On Thursday, civic body BMC had declined permission to both factions of Shiv Sena for the Dussehra rally at Shivaji Park citing law and order issues.

The court rejected the intervention application of Shinde camp MLA Sada Sarvankar.

A division bench of justices RD Dhanuka and Kamal Khata set aside the BMC order and directed the civic body to grant permission to the Uddhav faction from October 2 to 6. "In our view, the BMC order rejecting the application citing law and order is a clear abuse of process of law, along with the manner in which Sena secretary Anil Desai's application was considered by the BMC," said the court.

"It is not the corporation's case. The BMC decision was not a bona fide one," observed the court.

The court also rejected the application filed by Sada Sarvankar, sitting MLA from Shinde faction, who opposed the petition. The court said Sarvankar had no locus standi in the case.

The Uddhav-led Shiv Sena had approached the court seeking directions to the BMC to grant permission to hold the party's annual Dussehra rally at Shivaji Park ground on Oct 5. The Dussehra Mela has been held at Shivaji Park every year since 1966, and the BMC has always allowed it after receiving a formal application.

Watch out against rising hate crimes, MEA tells Indians

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

A day after India reacted sharply to the "so-called Khalistan referendum" in Canada, the Ministry of External Affairs on Friday advised its nationals in that country to remain vigilant in view of a spurt in hate crimes against Hindus, including attacks on temples, and anti-India activities.

"There has been a sharp increase in incident of hate crimes, sectarian violence and anti-India activities in Canada. The Ministry of External Affairs and our High Commission/Consulates General in Canada have requested for an investigation and also bring the perpetrators to book," a statement by the MEA read.

Indian nationals working in Canada, students and tourists from India have been advised to register with the High Commission of India in Ottawa or the Consulates General of India in Toronto and Vancouver through their respective websites, or the MADAD portal madad.gov.in, the ministry said.

Confirming the rise in hate crimes against Indians, Canadian Member of Parliament Chandra Arya said, "Antisocial elements in the recent past have engaged in acts of sacrilege and vandalism against Hindu places of worship. Unidentified miscreants sprayed graffiti praising Khalistan separatist movements and vandalised the BAPS Swaminarayan Mandir and Vishnu Mandir in Toronto."

Cash-strapped Bengal passes bill in House to hike borrowing capacity

PRANAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

BURDENED with ₹70,000 crore debt, the West Bengal government on Wednesday passed a bill in the Assembly to enhance its borrowing capacity. The move to amend the West Bengal Fiscal Responsibility and Budget Management Act, 2010, was initiated in the wake of the Centre pausing release of funds under the MGNREGA scheme. Mamata Banerjee-led government is now desperate to keep the flow of funds in the beneficiaries' accounts unaffected before the panchayat elections next year.

Earlier, the Union finance ministry had decided to fix the net borrowing ceiling for the state at 3.5 per cent of the Gross State Domestic Product (GSDP) for 2022-23, and additional borrowing capacity of 0.5 per cent of the GSDP.

"The state is going through acute fund crunch. In recent meetings, the CM has asked bureaucrats to find out ways to generate inflow. The government has no way out other than borrowing more money to keep the welfare schemes alive," said a bureaucrat.

The Union government had earlier directed the state to recover the money which was allegedly pilfered by panchayat and zila parishad functionaries, and the state had initiated moves to follow the directive.

Revealing the poor picture of the cash-strapped and industry-starved state, recent statistics released by the Central Industry and Business Ministry show that from January to July, investment worth ₹1.17 lakh crore came into India, of which West Bengal got only ₹1,663 crore.

The state's revenue mostly comes from stamps and registration fees, state goods and service tax, sales tax on petrol and state excise.

To keep welfare schemes afloat

Domicile policy a ploy to shift focus: J'khand ex-CM

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

IN yet another attack on Chief Minister Hemant Soren over the recent Cabinet decisions taken to define domicile policy, former Jharkhand CM Raghubar Das has alleged that the entire exercise was done to divert people's attention from illegal mining, for which the Enforcement Directorate has filed a charge sheet claiming that the CM's representative is involved in the scam.

Das further added that Soren is misleading the people as his speech in the Assembly is contradictory with his decision in the cabinet meeting. Talking to the media at state BJP headquarters in Ranchi on Friday, Das also shared a video in which Soren could be heard saying that domicile policy cannot be defined on the basis of 1932 'Khatiyan' and 27 per cent OBC reservation, and if any such decision is taken, it will not stand in the court for long.

"Despite the fact that it will be the contempt of High Court, Soren is moving forward with an intention to misguide the people," said Das. This is next to impossible as when the matter of 1932 Khatiyan had reached before the HC, it had termed it unconstitutional, he said.

Das further said that Soren is not intentional to formulate the domicile policy as according to them, the decisions will not be implemented till it is included in the ninth schedule of the constitution, which is not possible at all. The former CM also said that in 2016, the BJP government had identified those as locals who are residing in the state for last 30 years or have been born in Jharkhand or have name of their ancestors in land record locals ensured appointment of locals for class III and IV job for four years.

VOTE ON AS RUSSIA LOOKS TO ANNEX UKRAINIAN TERRITORY

Officials plan to set up makeshift polling booths near households

KYIV

VOTING opened Friday on whether Russian-held regions of Ukraine should become part of Russia, referendums that Ukrainian officials and their allies condemned as an illegitimate attempt by Moscow to annex areas its forces have occupied.

As polling got underway, Ukrainian forces said they were clawing back a village in the eastern Donetsk region and territory around another war-scarred town there.

"The Ukrainian army has retaken the village of Yatskivka in the Donetsk region," a senior army official told reporters, adding that Kyiv's forces had "also regained controlled over positions to the south of Bakhmut," also in Donetsk, where voting was underway Friday in Russian-controlled territory.

The Kremlin-orchestrated referendums in the Luhansk, Kherson and partly Russian-controlled Zaporizhzhia and Donetsk regions ask residents if they want the areas to be part of Russia. The voting overseen by Moscow-installed authorities, scheduled to run through Tuesday, is almost certain to go the Kremlin's way.

Ukraine and the West have denounced the referendums as a sham and an illegitimate step toward annexation. A similar vote took place in 2014 before Russia annexed Ukraine's Crimean Peninsula, a move that most of the world considered illegal.

Election officials planned to bring ballots to people's homes and setting up makeshift polling stations near residential buildings during the first four days of voting, as per Russian-installed officials in the occupied regions. Polls also opened in Russia, where refugees and other residents of the occupied regions could cast their votes.

Vyacheslav Volodin, the speaker of Russia's lower house of parliament, the State Duma, addressed the occupied regions Friday in an online statement, saying, "If you decide to become part of the Russian Federation—we will support you."

Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy briefly mentioned the "sham referenda" in which he switched from speaking in Ukrainian to Russian to directly tell Russian citizens they were being "thrown to their deaths." Agencies

War crimes committed in Ukraine: UN

GENEVA

UN investigators said on Friday that war crimes have been committed in the Ukraine conflict, listing Russian bombings of civilian areas, numerous executions, torture and horrific sexual violence.

Speaking before the UN Human Rights Council, the head of a high-level investigative team listed a long line of serious violations committed since Russia launched its full-scale invasion of Ukraine.

Erik Mose, the head of the Commission of Inquiry (COI), said the team had seen evidence of numerous executions, many people with their hands tied, and the rape and torture of children. "Based on the evidence gathered by the Commission, it has concluded that war crimes have been committed in Ukraine," he said. The categorical nature of the COI statement was unusual, as UN investigators typically refer the final confirmation of war crimes and similar violations to courts of law.

Ukraine hailed the findings.

She changed the face of historical fiction

HILARY MANTEL
6 JULY 1952 ■ 22 SEPTEMBER 2022

Debilitating health problems

Mantel endured debilitating pain for much of adult life caused by endometriosis, a condition where tissue similar to the lining of the womb grows in other places. "Pain sliced through me," she wrote in her memoir, adding "It stole my life"

SHE was variously described as a genius and a writers' writer who had this exquisite way of capturing a place in a time within three sentences. UK author of the best-selling Wolf Hall trilogy and the first woman to win the prestigious Booker Prize twice, Hilary Mantel passed away on Thursday. She was 70.

Labyrinth author and founder of the Women's Prize for Fiction, Kate Mosse, told BBC that Hilary "changed the face of how modern readers saw historical fiction".

"She was a classic writer, but living in our modern times, and she will be remembered like George Eliot and (Charles) Dickens — I have no doubt that her works will never go out of print," she said.

Mosse said Hilary was "a writers' writer" who "became one of the most important readers' that writers could have".

Mantel never looked at writing as an escape. "It was all I'd got and it was the cheapest source of power," she shared in an interview in 2003 with an international publication. While Wolf Hall fetched her first Booker, the second one was for its sequel Bring up the Bodies.

Celebrated for her works, including historical fiction, memoirs and novels, Mantel also took to playwriting amid the pandemic, writing the script for The Mirror and the Light (2020), which is the third and final work in the Tudor trilogy. It has been translated in 41 languages.

Author Bernardine Evaristo, who won the Booker Prize for Girl, Woman, Other in 2009, took to Twitter to recall that Mantel was warm and down-to-earth. British author J K Rowling said in Mantel's demise "We've lost a genius."

Writer Namita Gokhale said, "It's a great loss to the world literature as the intersections of history and fiction bring the past truly alive."

Sharing his thoughts by email with this newspaper, Delhi-based author and historian William Dalrymple said, "She was a fabulous, fabulous writer, one of our best and I am gutted, as a friend, as a fan, and as a long-time Mantel reader."

Britain slashes taxes, increases spending

LONDON

BRITAIN'S new government on Friday announced a sweeping plan of tax cuts it said would be funded by borrowing and revenues generated by anticipated growth, as part of contentious moves to combat the cost-of-living crisis and bolster a faltering economy. But Treasury chief Kwasi Kwarteng offered few details on the cost of the programme and its impact on the government's own targets for reducing deficits and borrowing. The government's two-pronged approach offers short-term help for homes and businesses struggling with soaring energy costs while betting that lower taxes and reduced red tape will spur economic growth and increase tax revenues in coming years.

The plan was immediately attacked by the opposition Labour Party for favouring the interests of business. AP

Can't pin down staff: Min on moonlighting

R Chandrasekhar says youngsters have sense of confidence and they want to create more values out of their skills

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

THE moonlighting (having a second job) issue has been igniting debates, and this time it reached the power corridors, with Minister of State for Electronics and IT Rajeev Chandrasekhar saying any captive models will fade.

Speaking at an event, he said the days when employees would sign up with big tech majors and spend their lives on the job were long gone. "Today's youngsters have every sense of confidence and purpose about wanting to monetise, create more values out of his or her own skills. So, the efforts of companies that want to pin their employees down and say that you should not work on your own start-up are doomed to fail," he said. His comments come at a time when IT major Wipro fired 300 employees for moonlighting and Infosys warned its employees saying "no double lives". Chandrasekhar also said time will come where there will be a community of product builders who will divide their time on multiple projects just like lawyers or consultants do, and that this is the future of work. Meanwhile, the country's largest IT services company TCS has asked its staff to work from office (WFO) at least three days in a week. On whether the company made WFO mandatory keeping moonlighting in mind, HR experts say getting back to offices could curb dual employment to a large extent, but it will not completely go away.

In an internal mail to employees, TCS told WFO is mandatory and it will be tracked. "Any non-compliance will be taken seriously, and administrative measures may be applied," it said. TCS spokesperson said they are moving in a phased manner to get its associates back to office.

"This is in line with our vision to transition to the 25*25 model," said the spokesperson. In this model, 25% of its workforce will be in the office and it will be introduced in a phased manner by 2025.

"The exact boundaries of moonlighting are still hazy. Considering that the world is increasingly moving towards platform economy and gig work, newer forms of workers engagement needs to be considered," AR Ramesh, Director-managed services and professional staffing, Adecco India said.

MOONLIGHTING DEBATE CONTINUES

- TCS in an internal mail asked employees to come back to office 3 days in a week
- Infosys has warned employees against moonlighting
- Wipro's Rishad Premji called it as cheating - 'plain and simple'

JAPAN

IMF CITES YEN'S VOLATILITY, TO MONITOR SITUATION

Asked about the Bank of Japan's intervention to boost the yen, the International Monetary Fund noted the currency's recent volatility and said it was monitoring the situation carefully. "The yen has been very volatile in recent weeks, given monetary policy tightening in the U.S. and other countries. We are monitoring the situation carefully," Ranil Salgado, the fund's mission chief for Japan said in a written statement. The Bank of Japan on Thursday stuck to its dovish monetary policy as the government made a surprise move to intervene in the currency market amid rising inflation and the sharp fall in the yen's value against the dollar. Right after the BOJ's announcement, the weakening of the yen accelerated to breach the key ¥145 line, prompting the Japanese government to give the green light to a yen purchasing intervention for the first time in 24 years. The intervention briefly bumped up the yen's rate to the ¥140 level. The intervention came as a surprise, as many economists have said it would be difficult for Japan to engage in a meaningful intervention, as the impact of such a move by Japan alone is seen as limited and comes with the risk of backfiring.

VIETNAM

PLANS CUT IN FUEL TAXES AS INFLATION RISES

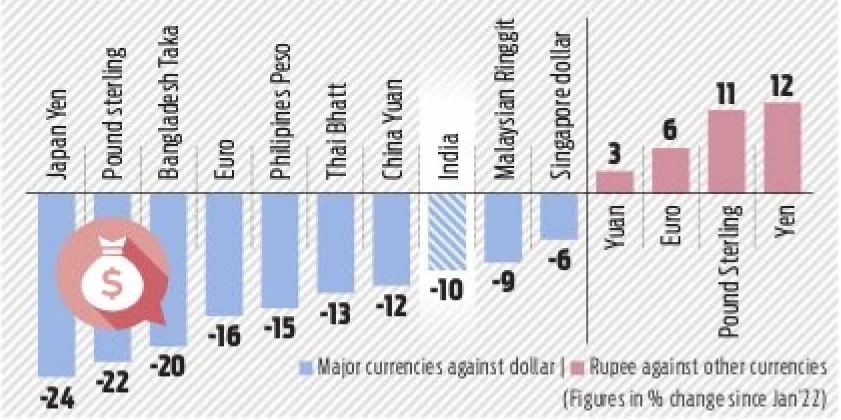
Vietnam's finance ministry on Friday said it is proposing to the legislature cutting the special consumption tax and value-added tax on fuels to keep inflation under 4% this year. The move will follow this week's decision by the central bank to raise policy rates and several previous cuts in taxes on fuels since March, including the environment tax and Most Favoured Nation tariff. The finance ministry is proposing two scenarios for the cuts - a 50% cut in special consumption tax and a 20% cut in value-added tax or a 50% cut in both the taxes, it said in a statement. According to the ministry, tax collection would be reduced by 7.4-12.2 trillion dong ($312.24-$514.77 million), with the average consumer price index 0.1%-0.15% lower if the new tax rates are in place for six months from November. Vietnam, a regional manufacturing hub, reported gross domestic product growth of 7.72% in the second quarter this year, but like many of its neighbours is facing mounting inflationary pressure as prices of food and energy rise across the world.

HONG KONG

LOWERS BUYERS' MORTGAGE STRESS TEST REQUIREMENT

Hong Kong's de facto central bank has relaxed a mortgage stress test requirement for property buyers, it said on Friday, in response to rising interest rates and a softening market. The Hong Kong Monetary Authority (HKMA) said it had told banks to lower the interest rate stress testing requirement to 200 basis points from 300 basis points, with immediate effect. Under the new requirement, the stress test aims to ensure borrowers have sufficient repayment capability if interest rates rise by 200 basis points. HKMA said in a statement that the new level is considered to be sufficiently prudent in terms of the effective risk management of banks' property lending business. The decision came after Hong Kong banks raised their best lending rate by 12.5 basis points on Thursday, the first rate hike in four years. "The relaxation is for supporting the market," said Eric Tso, senior vice president of mReferral Mortgage Brokerage Services. "It will offset part of the impact from the interest rate hike yesterday and allow homebuyers to borrow more."

PERFORMANCE IN CONTRAST



Re at new low vs $, stays strong against other currencies

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

Rupee hit a new low on Friday against the US dollar. It fell to 81.23 a dollar before regaining some ground as the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) likely intervened, helping the local currency to close at 80.99 in the spot market.

This week the rupee fell 1.6%, mostly weighed down by the US Federal Reserve's decision to hike interest rates by 75 basis points on Wednesday. Other central banks – Bank of England, Swiss National Bank – raising interest rates by 0.5% also had a rub-off effect on the Indian currency.

The recent fall – 1.6% in a week – in response to the US Fed rate hike has not given much confidence to economists and analysts.

The monetary policy committee of the RBI may have to take note of the rupee's fall when it sits from 28-30 September to decide the short-term interest rates.

"The recent downhill movement of the rupee following the Fed's announcement has made the rupee one of the more unsatisfactory currencies based on the response to the dollar strengthening in the global market," says Madan Sabnavis, chief economist, bank of Baroda.

Bank of Baroda in its latest research report says rupee will most likely head towards 82 a dollar mark as the RBI may not be as aggressive as it was earlier in supporting the local currency given continued weakness in other currencies.

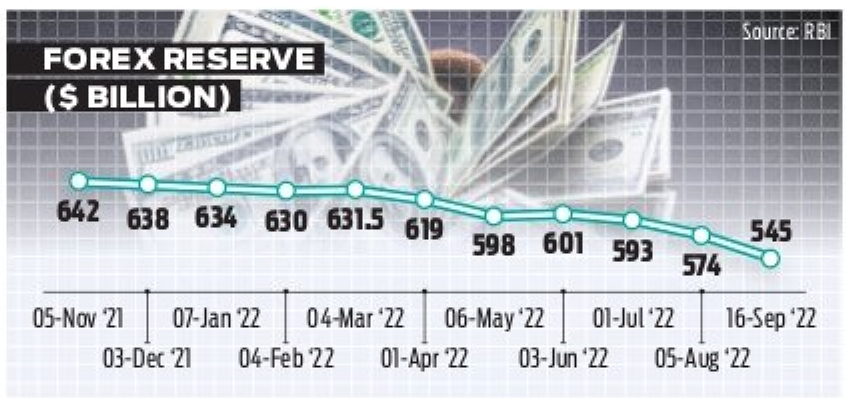
And while Rupee's continuous fall against the US dollar made the headlines, it has nonetheless managed to remain stronger than other major Asian and European currencies.

Rupee has dropped around 10% against the US dollar since the beginning of 2022. Compared to this, Japan's Yen has shed 24%, UK pound has dropped 22% and Bangladesh's currency has lost 20% since January this year. It has actually strengthened against major currencies like Pound Sterling (by 11%), Yen (12%) and Euro (6%).

Though this may not be of much consolation as depreciation of the rupee is likely to further worsen India's trade deficit – with imports getting costlier, neutralising any benefits to exports (due to weak rupee).

India's forex reserves fall by another $5.2 billion, lowest since October 2020

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi



INDIA'S foreign exchange reserve shrunk by another $5.2 billion in the week-ended September 16, as it fell to the lowest since October 2020.

According to the data released by RBI, India's forex reserve stood at $545 billion on September 16, losing nearly $100 billion from the peak level of $642 billion reached in November 2021.

The country's central bank has been using the forex reserve to support rupee, which has fallen nearly 10% since the beginning of the year. The aggressive intervention by the RBI in the forex market has come at the cost of depleting the forex reserve.

Forex reserves at current level can pay for 9 months of imports. India's monthly import Bill is nearly $63 billion.

Though economists have not yet raised alarm over the situation as they believe, going forward, the RBI may be less aggressive in intervening in the currency market to support rupee, which has shown better resilience than other major currencies in the world.

Also, with crude oil and other commodity prices softening, analysts see these as favourable for forex reserves. The potential FPI inflow into the Indian debt market due to inclusion of Government of India bonds on overseas indices is also likely to replenish the reserve. The forex reserves comprise 90% of foreign currency assets and the rest is gold and special drawing rights (SDRs) with the IMF.

Tata Group merges 7 companies with Tata Steel

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

IN its effort to synergise its metal business, Tata Steel is merging with itself six of its subsidiaries and an associate company. These include listed entities such as Tata Steel Long Products Ltd (TSLP), The Tinplate Company of India Ltd (TCIL), Tata Metaliks Ltd (TML) and TRF Ltd.

The merger of 7 subsidiaries includes 4 listed and 3 unlisted firms. As per Tata Steel, this scheme is in line with the its strategy of simplifying the group structure and this would enable synergies in logistics, procurement, strategy and expansion projects. Tata Steel also says it will create additional value for shareholders. "The proposed amalgamation will provide an opportunity for cut in operational costs through transfer of intermediary products between firms, better order loads, synergies from sales and production planning across the business," the company said in an exchange filing.

Analysts tracking the sector also welcomed the development with some saying it may result in annual savings of ₹800 crore. "Merger is a positive step as it will simply the corporate structure, plug leakage of addition royalty payments on inter-company iron ore transfers, cut corporate overheads, enable various businesses with higher financial flexibility to progress on growth projects and bring in further operational, procurement and tax synergies," said Jatin Damania, vice-president - Fundamental Research, Kotak Securities Ltd.

He added, "While we await company guidance on potential synergies, we estimate ₹750-800 crore annual savings, equity dilution of 2.2% and potential EPS accretion of 1.5-2%. The scheme will require various regulatory and shareholder approval and is likely to complete by the end of FY2024E."

Edelweiss Securities in its note said that it does not see much impact on the Tata Steel stock in the short term as dilution will be compensated by incremental Ebitda (earnings before interest, tax, depreciation and amortization) from subsidiaries/cost savings.

Govt's plan to bring OTT platforms under licensing regime faces criticism

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

THE draft Telecom Bill that promises to bring in far reaching changes in the telecom sector has not been taken favourably by all. Some analysts and think-tanks have raised concern over some of the proposals of the Bill.

The Broadband India Forum (BIF), a think-tank that works on development of the 'broadband ecosystem', on Friday said the implication of draft Indian Telecommunications Bill 2022 would take the country back to the pre-1997 era as it aims to take away the statutory independence of Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (TRAI). The forum, which has members like Cisco and Facebook, said that the proposed provisions to take away TRAI's statutory independence, will reduce the authority to one with limited role and powers. On the inclusion of OTT communication services (app-based) under the ambit of telecom services, BIF said the telecom regulatory body had conducted a detailed consultation on the subject over 4 years, and it came to the conclusion based on feedback from all stakeholders and global best practices that OTT services should not be regulated or licensed.

On the proposal of the government taking back spectrum after five years or withdrawing existing exemptions through mere notifications, without any consultation/due process, the forum said this could adversely impact the investor sentiment and investment potential in the sector. Kazim Rizvi, founding director of think tank The Dialogue said expanding the scope of the framework to include the OTT services is a matter of concern.

"OTT service and telecom are different in technical and functional aspects and require separate regulation," he said.

Market gives up resilience to negative global cues

ARSHAD KHAN @New Delhi

India's equity market finally gave up its resilience to negative global cues, as domestic benchmarks indices tumbled sharply by nearly 1.7% on Friday after several central banks hiked key lending rates amid looming recession fears.

Sensex shed more than 1,000 points to close at 58,100, while the broader Nifty tanked 300 points to end the week at 17,327. Rupee also hit a new low during today's session, as it breached the 81/US dollar mark.

After the Federal Reserve announced a 75 bps rate hike to tame the rising inflation in the US, many other central banks across the globe followed suit. The Bank of England raised its key lending rate by 0.5% to 2.25%, which is highest in 14-year. The RBI is also expected to follow this global practice and may go for a rate hike of 35-50 bps next week, as consumer inflation in India continues to remain above the 'comfortable' range.

This, according to market experts, beside slowing down global growth will tighten liquidity in the equity markets worldwide and is a big negative for emerging markets such as India where foreign investor participation is very prominent.

'Draft Telecom Bill to bring down cyber fraud cases'

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

THE Indian Telecommunications Bill 2022 will significantly bring down the cases of cyber fraud in the country, said telecom ministry Ashwani Vaishnaw on Friday.

The minister while talking on the telecom Bill said the main thrust of the Bill is to protect users; therefore, it has KYC obligation. "The Prime Minister has clearly directed us, in the Bill of telecommunications, users protection should be on priority and to bring down the cyber fraud cases. Thus, we are working on multiple dimensions to address this issue. That's why we have the KYC (know your customer) obligation in the Bill," said the minister.

The minister said the first fundamental thought in the Bill is about protection of users and every consumer has the right to know who is making the call. The government believes this will help prevent cyber frauds done using telecom services. Therefore, provisions related to identity have been included in the Bill. "Users also need protection from calls that they want to avoid. The Bill enables a legal framework for preventing harassment of users from unsolicited calls and messages," reads the explanatory note of the Bill.

India is prone to cybercrime and it reported 52,974 cases of cybercrime in 2021, an increase of over 5% from 2020 (50,035 cases) and over 15% from 2019 (44,735 cases). According to the government data, 70% of the cybercrime cases were reported from Telangana, Uttar Pradesh, Karnataka, Maharashtra and Assam, the report showed.

"A person who is receiving a call should know who the caller is. It includes all kinds of calls, be it a normal voice call, WhatsApp call, Facetime or any other OTT call. Distinction between a voice and data call has disappeared. KYC needs to be done for all the platforms and the services have to come under the same law," Vaishnaw added.

Accenture expects FY23 revenue growth to be 8-11%

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

IT major Accenture, which follows the September-August financial year, expects Fiscal 2023 revenue growth to be in the range of 8% to 11% in local currency.

It expects revenues for Q1 of fiscal 2023 to be in the range of $15.2 billion- $15.75 billion, which is less than analysts' estimates of $16.07 billion. The company's fourth quarter revenues were $15.4 billion, an increase of 15% in US dollars, compared with the fourth quarter of fiscal 2021. For the full fiscal year, its revenues were $61.6 billion, an increase of 22% in US dollars. Julie Sweet, chair and CEO, Accenture, in the company's earnings call said that technology skills are in demand by both companies as well as our competitors because technology is at the core of strategy. "And so we're expecting to have a tight labour market, and we continue to expect us to really excel, because despite that market, even last year, we added (almost) 100,000 people."

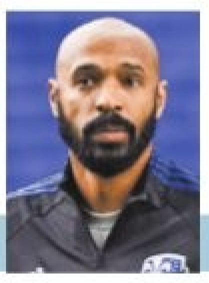
Henry to coach Belgium against the Netherlands



Thierry Henry will be in charge of coaching Belgium in Sunday's Nations League game against the Netherlands as a replacement for the suspended Roberto Martinez, the Belgium soccer federation said. It will be Henry's first game in charge with Belgium. The former France striker returned to work with the Belgian national team last year after serving as an assistant coach (2016-18).

Tirkey elected HI president, wants to take hockey to greater heights

ENS @ Bhubaneswar

FORMER India captain Dilip Tirkey was elected Hockey India president on Friday. In fact, like him, all members were elected unopposed. Bhola Nath Singh of Hockey Jharkhand was elected the secretary general. Sekar J Manoharan of Hockey Unit of Tamil Nadu is the treasurer.

Tirkey's CV as a player is more than impressive. He represented India at three Olympics and is a multiple Asian Games medallist. He will be the first player-president of HI. Tirkey said that he will ensure hockey reaches new heights in India under his command as an administrator. The hockey legend also said he will be focused on the upcoming men's World Cup in 2023 as well as the next Olympics in 2024.

"Hosting back to back World Cup is a challenge. Odisha Government and Hockey India will work together to make it a memorable one for all," he told this daily.

This time, apart from Bhubaneswar, Rourkela will also host matches. "For me, it's a matter of great pride that Rourkela is going to host such a big event," he said. He said his priority will also be the next Olympics. "I will do my best so that our team brings laurels in the next Olympic Games." The men's team had ended a 41-year medal drought in Tokyo where they won a bronze.

Tirkey thanked HI for the smooth conduct of the elections. "Thanks @DrSYQuraishi & @FIH_Hockey for conducting smooth elections of @TheHockeyIndia. I will ensure that Indian hockey reaches new heights," he tweeted. He was happy that it was an uncontested election and HI has reposed faith in him. "I am grateful that Rakesh Katyal and Bhola Nath Singh withdrew their president's nomination," he said.

According to international hockey federation (FIH) letter tweeted by Tirkey, the FIH has acknowledged the election result. "We are pleased to observe that the Executive Board of Hockey India stands elected as has been put on the website of Hockey India and that the election was unanimous for all posts," said the letter. "We are delighted that the election process has been completed and a democratic body is now in place. We extend our congratulations to Dr Dilip Tirkey, Bhola Nath Singh and Sekar J Manoharan and look forward to working with them closely."

The FIH also thanked the Committee of Administrators (CoA) for completing the election process and placing a democratically elected body in place.

End of an era: Jhulan ready for final over

2022 was always going to be the year. After all, Jhulan Goswami was chasing her World Cup dream. The dream that had slipped through her fingers in the final not once but twice. Despite declaring, back in 2017, that she didn't think her body would last another four-five years, she had made her way to New Zealand in 2022. But again, the dream remained elusive.

As she watched the Indian team crumble under pressure in their last league game of the ODI World Cup against South Africa at Christchurch — an injury to the upper abdomen had ruled her out — one could tell she was going through the same emotional ride as the millions of Indian fans who were following it back home. For her, perhaps, those feelings were amplified. She was dreading the fact that she couldn't be there when the team needed her.

Although Jhulan — with Mithali Raj by her side — said that they did not want to contemplate retirement that night, it's hard to say that the thought of her not playing again didn't cross our minds. It was not the kind of farewell the team wanted to give her. If not for a podium finish, she deserved to finish her career on the field — bowling her thunderbolts and taking wickets for her country — rather than be injured and confined to a dressing room.

Which is why, it is only fitting that Jhulan gets to sign off on a high, playing her final international match at Lord's on Saturday having secured India's first ODI series win in England since 1999. "When I started, I never thought about playing for so long. It was a great experience. I learnt and enjoyed every moment," said the 39-year-old in a virtual media interaction on Friday. "Coming from Chakdaha (a small town in Nadia district, West Bengal), I did not have an idea about women's cricket and (how to) take it up professionally. Thanks to my parents and family who supported me from the beginning."

The beginning. That was over two decades ago. No other fast bowler — across genders — in the last 70 years has had a longer career than hers. It's the longevity that defined her. To take up fast bowling in India as a female cricketer, who seldom got the best resources and pitches, and put her body through the grind for over 20 years while being among the top pacers in the world is no mean feat. And she knows it too. During the World Cup earlier this year, when Ananya Upendran, a fast bowler-turned journalist, asked about the difficulties her body goes through at the age of 39, Jhulan was her candid best laughing, "Ananya, only you can understand me." However, she was still at the peak of her powers, delivering the wickets whenever the team needed it — something she still does. England opener Tammy Beaumont, who lost her stumps to a sharp inswinger from Jhulan in the first ODI, would confirm it.

Jhulan was a grounded student of the game. Early in her career, she never hesitated to reach out to overseas pacers, nor did she think twice about passing on that knowledge to the youngsters as she became their "Jhulu di". The way other players, teammates and rivals, especially, the pacers speak about her, tells the story. One just has to listen to South Africa's Shabnim Ismail — the only pacer who could potentially get past Jhulan's wickets tally — on how much she "loves and looks up to her."

Jhulan has repeatedly spoken about how she dreamt of having at least one international wicket next to her name when she was a ball girl during the 1997 Women's World Cup final at Eden Gardens, Kolkata. 25 years on, she finishes with more than 350 of them, going down as the greatest female fast bowler of all time.

Perhaps, her career is testament to the fact that you can't become what you can't see — ask Pakistan's Kainat Imtiaz who took to cricket seriously after watching Jhulan as a ball girl in the 2005 Asia Cup. Jhulan saw what she wanted to become in 1997 and went on to show generations of young girls how it is done for 20 years, 8 months and 19 days.

Yashasvi's day as West take control

GOMESH S @ Coimbatore

West Zone's Yashasvi Jaiswal celebrates his ton against South | S SENBAGAPANDIYAN

FOR Yashasvi Jaiswal, everything about him is just cricket. After a successful Ranji Trophy, the ongoing Duleep Trophy has been no different as the southpaw smashed his second double century (209 batting) of the tournament to put West Zone in command in the final against South Zone on Friday at the Sri Ramakrishna Arts and Science College cricket ground, Coimbatore.

Early on Day three, South Zone were bundled out for 327, adding just nine runs to the overnight total. From thereon, Yashasvi took charge of things as he played positively from ball one. That he survived the new ball meant South Zone held back their best bowler in R Sai Kishore. However, even as the spinner came along, he jumped out of the crease to launch the spinner over long-on. With Sai Kishore being attacked, South Zone had nowhere to hide. They kept rotating the bowlers hoping for a breakthrough, but almost every batter who came in, barring Rahane, got good starts. That they dropped Yashasvi off K Gowtham's bowling didn't help their case either. The young left-hander breezed through his hundred first, and then brought up his double in no time — the SR of 85.65 says it all.

After the day's play, Yashasvi said after the scratchy start he had in the first innings, he decided to change it up. "I have to play all the shots because one good ball can get you out. I was thinking of playing my shots and then seeing how it goes. I was thinking if I dominate the bowler, then maybe he won't bowl that ball which can get me out," he said. "They tried bowling negative to me so many times but I showed my patience. When I was aware of where he (Sai Kishore) was going to bowl and how the field was set, I was playing the best shot that I could in that situation."

Yashasvi has two tattoos, one on the back of each forearm. The one on the right hand reads 'I trust 16.10.2019' with the date of his double century against Jharkhand in the 2019 Vijay Hazare trophy. On the left, he has 'I believe 07.05.2022', referring to his comeback match for Rajasthan Royals in the 2022 IPL where he scored a half-century against Punjab Kings. He believes that it gives him a positive energy and motivates him to do well. And he wants to get the memorable moments inked on his body. The rate at which he is scoring double hundreds, it might not be long before his hands are completely filled with tattoos.

Brief scores: West Zone 270 & 376/3 in 85 ovs (Jaiswal 209 batting, Shreyas 71) vs South Zone 327 (Unadkat 4/52).

HCA not to blame: Azhar

ENS @ Hyderabad

A DAY after the horrifying stampede at Gymkhana Grounds which left several people including a few police personnel injured, Hyderabad Cricket Association (HCA) president Mohd Azharuddin on Friday said that "we have done nothing wrong" with regard to sale of tickets for the T20 International between India and Australia.

The match is scheduled to be played at the Rajiv Gandhi International Cricket Stadium in Uppal on Sunday. Though the HCA chief tried to provide a detail account of the tickets sold, a major chunk of the tickets didn't get accounted for, leading to allegations of irregularities and black marketing. Azharuddin said that 11,450 tickets were sold online on September 15 while 4,000 tickets were booked by corporates on Paytm. When asked about block marketing of the tickets and mismanagement, the former India captain said, "When the tickets were sold online, how could anybody block them from outside? I failed to understand. If somebody is saying that, it is totally untrue. I haven't done anything wrong. I have got all the files. The supervisory committee has come from the Supreme Court, HCA and I'm answerable to that. I am going to give all the details to the committee."

Chahar hopes to catch the eye in second game

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @ Chennai

INDIA 'A' matches are important in the wider scheme of things. It allows fringe players an opportunity to display their talent to the national selectors. One of those players hoping to catch the eye is leggie Rahul Chahar, who had a long net session at the MA Chidambaram Stadium on Friday.

''These India A games are good opportunities for us to make an impression and try and get back to the national side. These (A games) are very important. I am looking to do well if I get an opportunity,'' said an optimistic Chahar after practice.

Chahar wasn't picked for the first unofficial ODI but it looks like he may get the nod for the second match on Sunday.

"I need to do my job when I get an opportunity I need to fill it," he said. "That's my focus always. So, I don't get frustrated or anything because if I do well, I am sure I will get a chance."

An aggressive bowler, he delivered multiple good performances for Punjab Kings in the Indian Premier League in 2022. "(Anil) Kumble (who was coach of the franchise) told me one thing which is not to change my speed ever. There are some coaches who tell me to bowl slow. But he (Kumble) said to me 'never to bowl slow'. Because, for me, my strength is to bowl fast and that's me. Kumble told me to never to change myself," he revealed. While every spinner has a stock delivery, what's Chahar's?

''I can turn the ball really well. I can do that more than others. That is my strength. Plus for me, I am ready to bowl anywhere in the innings... be it powerplay, middle overs or death. I keep myself prepared as the captain can give me the ball any time," the 23-year-old insisted.

The onus these days is on becoming a 3d cricketer and Chahar knows he will have to bring other skilsl to the table. That's why he's putting the hard yards on his batting.

'I started focusing on my batting a lot, especially after the T20 World Cup. I got dropped from the India team. As a bowler, one should know how to bat. In all formats, every successful team has a good lower-order batting. So I am keen to improve my batting," he said.

''The coaches (Punjab) saw me batting in the nets. They felt that I was an all-rounder."

Have more freedom for France: Mbappe

AFP @ Paris

France's Kylian Mbappe (C) in action against Austria on Thursday | AFP

KYLIAN Mbappe admitted he enjoys having more "freedom" when playing for France than he does with Paris Saint-Germain after his superb goal set the World Cup holders on their way to a 2-0 win over Austria on Thursday.

"I play differently here. I am asked to do different things than with my club. I have much more freedom," Mbappe said after the game at the Stade de France, where victory for Les Bleus allowed them to stave off the threat of relegation from the top tier of the UEFA Nations League. Mbappe's opener was followed by a second goal from Olivier Giroud for a France side who won despite an ongoing injury crisis.

The 23-year-old PSG superstar has to share the limelight at his club with both Lionel Messi and Neymar, with the Brazilian currently their top scorer.

"The coach knows we have a number nine in 'Olive' who keeps the defences occupied. I can run about, find space and look for the ball," added Mbappe. "With Paris it's different. I can't do that. I am asked to be more of a pivot for the others." France now play away to Denmark on Sunday and still need to win in Copenhagen to be sure of avoiding dropping down to League B. If they slip up, Austria will finish above them in Group A1 by defeating Croatia at the same time.

However, the priority in these games is preparing for the World Cup, with France's defence of the trophy starting in just two months.

Coach Didier Deschamps lost a whole team of players to injury before Thursday's match, when both Barcelona defender Jules Kounde and AC Milan goalkeeper Mike Maignan had to come off hurt. Neither will play against Denmark as a result. "We have an incredible pool of talent, so even when we are missing important players there are others who can come in and do well," admitted Mbappe.

Results: Group A1: France 2-0 Austria, Croatia 2-1 Denmark. A4: Belgium 2-1 Wales, Netherlands 2-0 Poland. C1: Turkey 3-3 Luxembourg, Lithuania 1-1 Faroe Islands. C3: Kazakhstan 2-1 Belarus, Slovakia 1-2 Azerbaijan. D1: Liechtenstein 0-2 Andorra, Larvia 1-2 Moldova.

Rohit leads from front to help India clinch rain-curtailed second T20I

ENS @ Chennai

India's Jasprit Bumrah (L) tries to run out Australia's Matthew Wade on Friday. Bumrah was making an appearance for the first time since July 14 and he was in his elements, removing Aaron Finch with a searing yorker | AP

ON nights like Friday, it's hard to figure out the positives and the negatives. Perhaps, the one big takeaway from the second T20I between Australia and India was not the game itself. The major talking point revolved around the dodgy drainage system at the Vidarbha Cricket Association Stadium in Nagpur. Considering there was no rain on Friday, should the ground have been ready by 7.30 PM?

It wasn't. "Match delayed by a wet outfield," was the result because of the rains on Thursday. When it eventually began, there was a T8 in place. From an Indian point of view, it was nice to see Jasprit Bumrah back in action, playing his first international match since July 14 (ODI against England). While Bumrah was his own self on his comeback, Rohit owned the stage with an innings befitting the situation.

Needing 91 to stay alive in the series, the skipper tonked the Australian bowlers to all parts of the ground and remained unbeaten on 46 off 20 balls (4x4, 4x6). He set the platform with three big sixes in the first over off Josh Hazlewood. Even though India had a wobble in the middle phase, they were always in control of the situation. Earlier, Axar Patel shone with the ball to restrict the visitors to 2/13 off his two overs.

Brief scores: Australia 90/5 in 8 ovs (Finch 31, Wade 43; Axar 2/13) lost to India 92/4 in 7.2 ovs (Rohit 46 n.o; Zampa 3/16).

Youth activists staged a coordinated "global climate strike" Friday to highlight their fears about the effects of global warming and demand more aid for poor countries hit by wild weather.

NASA gears up to deflect asteroid, in key test of planetary defence

NASA on Monday will attempt a feat humanity has never before accomplished: deliberately striking a spacecraft into an asteroid to slightly deflect its orbit in a key test of our ability to stop cosmic objects from devastating life on Earth

DOUBLE ASTEROID REDIRECTION TEST

The Double Asteroid Redirection Test or DART spaceship launched from California last November and is fast approaching its target, which it will strike at roughly

23,000 kph

ASTEROID NOT A THREAT

To be sure, neither the asteroid moonlet Dimorphos, nor the big brother it orbits, called Didymos, pose any threat as the pair loop the Sun, passing some seven million miles from Earth at the nearest approach

AN IMPORTANT MISSION

But the experiment is one NASA has deemed important to carry out before an actual need is discovered

IMPACT WITH THE ASTEROID

If all goes to plan, the impact between the car-sized spacecraft, and the 160 metres asteroid should take place at 7:14 pm Eastern Time

PUSHING IT INTO SMALLER ORBIT

By striking Dimorphos head-on, NASA hopes to push it into a smaller orbit, shaving ten minutes off the time it takes to encircle Didymos, which is currently 11 hours and 55 minutes a change that will be detected by ground telescopes in the days that follow

TURNING FICTION INTO REALITY

The proof-of-concept experiment will make a reality what has before only been attempted in science fiction-notably films such as "Armageddon" and "Don't Look Up."

DRACO TO CAPTURE THE EVENT

As the craft propels itself through space, flying autonomously for the mission's final phase like a self-guided missile, its main camera system, called DRACO, will start to beam down the very first pictures of Dimorphos

DART'S MOMENTUM

How much momentum DART imparts on Dimorphos will depend on whether the asteroid is solid rock, or more like a "rubbish pile" of boulders bound by mutual gravity, a property that's not yet known

CAPTURING THE COLLISION

Minutes later, a toaster-sized satellite called LICIACube, which separated from DART a couple of weeks earlier, will make a close pass of the site to capture images of the collision and the ejecta- the pulverized rock thrown off by the impact

A FEW DANGEROUS ROCKS

Very few of the billions of asteroids and comets in our solar system are considered potentially hazardous to our planet, and none in the next hundred or so years

We know that from the geological record—for example, the six-mile wide Chicxulub asteroid struck Earth 66 million years ago, plunging the world into a long winter that led to the mass extinction of the dinosaurs along with 75% of species

NATURE OF ASTEROIDS

Scientists are also hoping to glean valuable new information that can inform them about the nature of asteroids more generally

NASA's first planetary defense test mission

SHAPE OF THE ASTEROID

We also don't know its actual shape but NASA engineers are confident DART's SmartNav guidance system will hit its target

Focus shifts from Ukraine, other issues emerge at UN

Israel's PM Yair Lapid calls for establishment of a Palestinian state

SUMMIT

UNITED NATIONS: After three days in which the war in Ukraine consumed world leaders at the United Nations, other conflicts and concerns are beginning to emerge.

Some are long-simmering ones with global reach that have receded from the public's attention recently. Israel's prime minister called for the establishment of a Palestinian state in a speech on Thursday that focused on that conflict. The Palestinian president speaks on Friday.

Others are regional conflicts that have flared. Armenia's prime minister warned that "the risk of new aggression by Azerbaijan remains very high" after the largest outbreak of hostilities between the two adversaries in nearly two years. The ex-Soviet countries are locked in conflict over Nagorno-Karabakh, which is part of Azerbaijan but has been under the control of ethnic Armenian forces backed by Armenia since a separatist war ended there in 1994.

Leaders from Iraq and Pakistan, meanwhile, take the stage on Friday. Both nations are pivotal to the geopolitical world order but have received less global attention in recent years.

The annual gathering of leaders at the UN General Assembly provides an opportunity for each country to air its concerns and express its hopes. This year's meeting has thus far focused heavily on Russia's invasion of Ukraine and the ensuing war, as countries have deplored how the conflict has upended the geopolitical order, repeatedly raised the specter of nuclear disaster and unleashed food and energy crises. Russia and Ukraine faced off on Thursday at a Security Council meeting — an extraordinary if brief encounter during which the top diplomats from nations at war were in the same room exchanging barbs and accusations, albeit not directly to each other.

At the meeting, the United States called on other nations to tell Russia to stop making nuclear threats and end "the horror" of its war. Moscow repeated its frequent claims that Kyiv has long oppressed Russian speakers in Ukraine's east—one of the explanations Vladimir Putin's government has offered for the invasion.

The Security Council meeting came a day after Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy, speaking to the assembled leaders via video, insisted that his forces would win the war and demanded more robust UN action. The General Assembly gave Zelenskyy a pass from leaving his wartime nation so he could appear remotely — a decision Russia opposed.

Drowning island nations

While world leaders acknowledge the threat of climate change, Tuvalu Prime Minister Kausea Natano is racing to save his tiny island nation from drowning by raising it 4 to 5 metres above sea level through land reclamation. While experts issue warnings about the eventual uninhabitability of the Marshall Islands, President David Kabua must reconcile the inequity of a seawall built to protect one house that is now flooding another one next door. This is the reality of climate change: Some people get to talk about it from afar, while others must live it every day

Pak deploys more docs to fight disease

HEALTH

ISLAMABAD: Pakistan has deployed thousands of additional doctors and paramedics in the country's worst flood-hit province to contain the spread of disease, which has killed at least 300 of the flood victims, officials said on Friday.

Some of the doctors who refused to work in Sindh province have been fired by the government, according to the provincial health department. Floods have killed 724 people, including 311 children and 133 women in the province since July.

The monsoon rains and flooding, which many experts say are fueled by climate change, have affected 33 million people, caused at least 1,596 deaths and damaged 2 million homes across Pakistan. About half a million flood survivors are homeless, living in tents and makeshift structures.

In the past two months, Pakistan sent nearly 10,000 additional doctors, nurses and other medical staff to tend to survivors at health facilities and makeshift medical camps across Sindh. About 18,000 doctors and nearly 38,000 paramedics are treating survivors in the province, according to data from the health department.

Floods have damaged more than 1,000 health facilities in Sindh, forcing survivors to travel to other areas to seek medical help.

Waterborne and other diseases in the past two months have killed 334 flood victims. The death toll prompted the World Health Organization last week to raise the alarm about a "second disaster," with doctors on the ground racing to battle outbreaks.

Some floodwaters in Pakistan have receded, but many districts in Sindh are still submerged, and displaced people living in tents and makeshift camps face the threat of gastrointestinal infections, dengue fever and malaria, which are on the rise amid stagnant waters.

In Sindh, teams of fumigators fanned out across flood-hit areas, spraying in an effort to keep mosquitos at bay and prevent further outbreaks of dengue fever and malaria. Over 134,000 cases of diarrhea and 44,000 cases of malaria were reported in the hardest-hit areas of Sindh this past week.

Water in asteroid offers a vital clue

SPACE

TOKYO: Specks of dust retrieved by a Japanese space probe from an asteroid some 300 million kilometres from Earth have revealed a surprising component: a drop of water, scientists said on Friday.

The discovery offers new support for the theory that life on Earth was seeded from outer space. The findings are in the latest research to be published from the analysis of 5.4 grams of rocks and dust gathered by the Hayabusa-2 probe from the asteroid Ryugu. "This drop of water has great meaning," lead scientist Tomoki Nakamura of Tohoku University said.

"Many researchers believe that water was brought (from outer space) but we actually discovered water in Ryugu, an asteroid near Earth, for the first time." This water has already yielded several insights, including organic material that showed some of the building blocks of life on Earth, amino acids, may have been formed in space. The research says the team found a drop of fluid in the Ryugu sample which was carbonated water containing salt and organic matter. That bolsters the theory that asteroids like Ryugu could have "provided water, which contains salt and organic matter" in collisions with Earth.

New treatment for cystic fibrosis

RESEARCH

More than 70,000 people worldwide are estimated to suffer from the inherited disease, in which a defective gene causes sticky mucus to build up in the lungs, digestive tract and other parts of the body. However, a triple-pill treatment sold as Kaftrio in Europe and Trikafta in the US has had a major impact since the US approved it in 2019. The life expectancy of people with cystic fibrosis born between 2017 and 2021 in US is now 53, up from 38 a decade ago, according to Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Kaftrio has been hailed as a breakthrough because it targets the underlying cause of the disease, repairing a mutated defect in the CFTR gene. But, out of 7,500 patients in France, only 40% are able to use it.

Belgium shuts nuclear reactor

ENERGY

Belgium on Friday will push through with a decades-old plan to shut down a nuclear reactor despite calls for a rethink given fears of power blackouts this winter. Wedged between nuclear-powered France and gas-and-coal-dependent Germany, Belgium relies on about half of its electricity needs from an ageing stable of seven nuclear reactors that are operated by Engie, a French company. The closure of one of the four reactors at the Doel plant near the port of Antwerp is the first step in Belgium's decision in 2003 to exit nuclear power completely by 2025. In February, another reactor is set for mothballing at Tihange, just 50 km from border with Germany,

Fear grips undocumented foreign workers in South Africa

MIGRANTS

JOHANNESBURG: Zimbabwean domestic migrant worker Precious clocked in late for work, launched into her duties for a white South African family as if nothing happened, yet hours earlier she had been arrested for being in the country without papers.

South Africa—the continent's most industrialised country—is buckling under a wave of illegal migration triggered by economic woes in its neighbours. Many come from Malawi, Lesotho, but the majority are from Zimbabwe.

Lately police have scaled up crime-busting stop-and-search operations, including weeding out undocumented migrants.

One such early morning blitz was launched this week in Springs, a district at the eastern end of the largest city of Johannesburg.

Several dozen police officers mounted a check point on a narrow road, stopped cars and buses, meticulously searching boots and ordering occupants out, demanding identification documents.

Grabbed by the waist or arm, one-by-one they were led to the side of the road to a queue stretching out in front of immigration officers.

"These are weekly operations," provincial police chief Elias Mawela, told AFP.

"When it's confirmed they are illegal in the country they'll be taken in and later on they'll be taken to court... and back to their countries of origin".

But in some raids, police officers solicit bribes to release the migrants. The day Precious was arrested at a minibus taxi rank in downtown Johannesburg, she was one of 30 people bundled into a police van.

She was asked to pay 1,000 rands on the spot—equivalent to her weekly wages—or risk being taken to the police station for eventual deportation.

Precious immediately texted her employer warning she would be late and frantically called friends and associates to raise the bribe money.

"I was scared," said the single mother of two.

Official data lists an estimated 3.8 million migrants in South Africa, a figure considered a gross understatement. Foreigners, especially from the rest of Africa, are targets of xenophobic resentment and accused of taking jobs in a country where at least one in every three people is unemployed.

Zimbabwe has a long history of immigration into South Africa, dating back to the 19th century when the gold rush saw mining companies hiring labour across the borders.

Fiona makes its way to Canada

DISASTER

Fiona, a Category 3 hurricane, pounded Bermuda with heavy rains and winds early on Friday as it swept by the island on a route forecast to have it approaching north-eastern Canada late in the day as a still-powerful storm. Authorities in Bermuda opened shelters and closed schools and offices ahead of Fiona. Premier David Burt sent a tweet urging residents to "take care of yourself and your family. ...." The Canadian Hurricane Centre issued a hurricane watch over extensive coastal expanses of Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland. The US National Hurricane Center said Fiona should reach the area as a "large and powerful post-tropical cyclone with hurricane-force winds." Ian Hubbard, a meteorologist, said the centre of the storm is expected to arrive on Saturday morning between 9 am and 10 am locally, but winds and rains will arrive late Friday.

Celebrated entrepreneur Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw, who has recently invested in the Science Gallery, Bengaluru, and the Museum of Art & Photography (MAP), speaks to a crowd of fellow women entrepreneurs about being an accidental entrepreneur

'WANT TO BE REMEMBERED MORE THAN JUST A WOMAN OF SCIENCE'

> After my best friend was diagnosed with cancer, she decided to sell her property to get treatment. I realised how unjust the system was that someone had to sell their belongings to get the treatment they deserved. My husband, John Shaw, was also diagnosed with cancer, and later, my mother as well. After such experiences, I decided to venture into cancer research

TUNIR BISWAS

"IN a country like India, women are not welcome in the business world," says Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw to an auditorium packed with fellow women entrepreneurs, who nod in agreement, as the executive chairperson and founder of Biocon and Biocon Biologics delves into her past to share helpful anecdotes with other women who lead.

The event, held at Biocon's auditorium on Friday, was organised by Ladies Who Lead (LWL), a non-profit organisation geared towards empowering women in business and #SheInspires, a platform by Biocon Biologics to highlight their women in science. The conversation with Mazumdar-Shaw was spearheaded by Aditya Ghosh, chief mentor, Ladies Who Lead, and co-founder of Akasa Air.

"I was asked to head Biocon India by Biocon Biochemicals' founder Les Auchincloss at a time when I wasn't even looking for any entrepreneurial venture. I was only 25 years old and was trying to get a job as a brewer. That's why I like to call myself an accidental entrepreneur," laughs Mazumdar-Shaw.

Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw, Aditya Ghosh and LWL CEO & founder Aabha Bakaya caught in a candid moment before the event | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

Feuds with patriarchy

A major issue Mazumdar-Shaw had battled throughout her 44-year career as a woman entrepreneur was patriarchy. Outside of trying to get funding for Biocon in the late 1970s and early '80s, sexism reared its prejudicial head when Mazumdar-Shaw was looking to build her core team for the company.

"Back then, I was working out of my garage, which I had converted into an office. I had put out advertisements in newspapers that Biocon was looking to hire people. But many who showed up for interviews used to not take the job as they did not want to work under a woman. Some of them mistook me for being a secretary as well," says Mazumdar-Shaw, who added that one of her friends, who was working as a teacher, quit her job to join as her secretary. "But eventually, I found people who wanted to work for me, including my R&D head, who had just passed out of an IIT back then. Many of the members from the early team stayed with me for decades," she shares.

Battles with cancer

Apart from Biocon combatting diabetes and Covid, which came as a national need, the biopharmaceutical company's entry into cancer research has been more of a personal journey for Shaw. "After my best friend was diagnosed with cancer, she decided to sell her property to get treatment. I realised how unjust the system was that someone had to sell their belongings to get the treatment they deserved. My husband, John Shaw, was also diagnosed with cancer, and later, my mother as well. After such experiences, I decided to venture into cancer research so that general people can afford the treatment in the future as well. Since then, Biocon has gone on to become the first global company to have a USFDA-approved breast cancer drug," says Mazumdar-Shaw, who has also recently created a company named Immuneel Therapeutics Private Limited with one of India's premier oncologists, Siddharth Mukherjee.

Mazumdar-Shaw also believes in philanthropy, which she says her father had instilled in her. "My father used to say money is not a currency to buy favours, it is a currency to make a difference," she says.

So for someone who has achieved so much, including the Padma Shri and Padma Bhushan, what would Shaw like to be remembered as? "I would like it if people remember me as someone with multi-faceted interests who was more than a woman of science," concludes Mazumdar-Shaw.

Meet Troy, Gabriella and the students of East High School… the movie is going to have stage interpretation by the students of Delhi Public School Bangalore South

EXPRESS FEATURES

IF you have grown up singing We are all in this together or have cheered for the Wild Cats of East High School more than your school team, then there is something exciting coming your way. Disney Channel's superhit original musical High School Musical's stage representation will be all set to bring back memories of Troy, Gabriella and the students of East High. The stage show, High School Musical Jr, produced by Imbroglio Production in association with Delhi Public School Bangalore South, will be staged at Dayananda Sagar Auditorium on Sept 24.

The show is a licenced version of Disney's High School Musical. Divyesh Bhandari, the director of the show, promises a memorable evening 'with larger than life sets, costumes, foot-tapping iconic numbers'. "I always question myself as to why I do what I do. But the joy of seeing a life-transforming change in over 200 students over three months, the lessons learnt, the chaos that finally leads to creation is a motivation that only a musical can offer," says Bhandari.

The choreography, a crucial of a musical, is by Mithun Prasad and Simran Thakur; while Bindu Paul is the music director for the show.

High School Musical Jr will be staged at Dayananda Sagar Auditorium on Sept 24, 2.30pm onwards.

Love Story

It's the first day after winter break at East High. The school is divided by Jocks, Brainiacs, and Thespians. Resident jock, Troy, discovers the brainy Gabriella – who he met on a ski trip – has enrolled at East High. The couple cause an upheaval when they decide to audition for the high school musical.

MOVIE FACTS

Cassie Steele and Matthew Underwood were originally cast as Gabriella and Troy.

Basketball coach Bolton and Ms Darbus were supposed to have a duet.

Ashley Tisdale, who played the character of snobby Sharpay Evans, originally auditioned for the part of Gabriella.

Movie's working title was High School Musical but by the time they were done filming, they still hadn't thought of a new title, so the producers stuck with High School Musical.

MUSHTIKA BANDHANA

(HAND CLENCHING)

This hand yoga is very effective exercise for individuals struggling with arthritis or osteoarthritis. Regular practise can promote strength and induce relaxation in your hands, fingers, and surrounding joints. Osteoarthritis causes the cushions of the finger joints to wear out. - Bring your arms forward to shoulder level and keep them straight. Twist your wrist such that your thumb side is facing up. Now, make a fist with the thumb wrapped by other fingers.
- While you inhale, open your hand and let all your five fingers stretch out. As you exhale, let your hand be folded back into a fist, tucking wrapping your thumb with other fingers.
- Repeat this exercise around 8 times and then perform with the other hand.
- After a little practise you will be able to perform the hand clenching exercise using both hands simultaneously.
- To achieve beneficial results soon you should make sure to practise this exercise on a daily basis.

LIMITATIONS

LONELY HEARTS' CLUB

HOLA my tribe!

I address you thus, because it is very important to have a sense of belonging. Sometimes an internal loneliness encompasses you and that void is very difficult to fill. One may be surrounded with friends, laughter and song, but suddenly, a melancholy washes over you. You don't know why, but your eyes prick with unshed tears and even a nice glass of Merlot doesn't help!

We were invited to the hip Resto-bar, Gawky Goose, to try out Chef Sajosh Peetayil's contribution to the new menu. The invitees were an intimate group belonging to a cross-section of Bengaluru society. I love small soirees. The conversations flow as does the tipple. The chef had the luxury of time to serve up an array of delectable tasting portions without getting hassled. The owner of 'Gawky', Kiran Kumar, is a fit and young orthopaedic surgeon turned entrepreneur. He has the pub figured out, concentrating on some great cocktails and good food. My son and his friends, who frequently visit, said that the new millennials and Gen X are not looking for the usual greasy titbits associated with pub-grub. Instead they were looking for healthier options, which would also serve as a full meal. Kiran who belongs to that age-range has clearly understood the need of his generation.

Riyaaz Amlani

While a 'healthy' discussion was ongoing along with tasty morsels of gossip (I have been away for six weeks guys!), a popular socialite walks up to me and admits that amongst that whole bustle of the people and the pandemonium, she felt lonely! I immediately understood! Nothing a warm hug and invitation to join our table wouldn't cure. Reminds me of a Barbara Streisand song that went had lyrics that addressed this; 'People who need people…are the luckiest people in the world.' Reaching out, is the most powerful tool if it comes from a place of integrity!

Barely being in my ooru for a week and the filth that permeated into the water supply of my swanky address in CBD was a downer. Though we weren't guilty of blocking any Raja-Kaluve drains, the aftermath of the floods in the city played havoc with sewage seeping into our water-supply. Almost immediately I was stuck with the 'mother-of-all' colon infections that required on-going medical care and I was feeling very sorry for myself. But, when you have a friend like Priya Mascarenhas, the de-facto first lady of Bengaluru, (she was my parents' friend too) who calls to straight talk you, reminding you of your strength and pedigree, one feels better instantly! The beautiful flowers from her precious garden, with a bottle of bubbly and my favourite Chanel perfume had me pirouetting with glee. Auld Bangalore certainly knows how to do things with style!

My good friend restaurateur and entrepreneur Riyaaz Amlani invited us to the opening of his delicatessen, Smoke House Deli in a new avatar. He is the CEO of Impresario Entertainment & Hospitality, and the president of National Restaurant Association of India. I love his sense of innovation. He is an articulate and restless person who never rests on his laurels. His chain of restaurants caters to different people and palates. Smart move…His customers don't have to find newer places to wine and dine. He has different strokes for different folks!

KHO-KHO GETS A SOULFUL REBIRTH

A SHARADHAA

IT is said that 'Sports do not build character…they reveal it'. With Guru Shishyaru, writer and director Jadeshaa K Hampi has used this saying as his core and built a story around the game of our land, Kho-Kho around it. The film covers all elements like greed, jealousy, failure, victory, desperation, emotions, camaraderie, and above all, the sacred relationship between a guru and Shishya.

Set in the 90s, the film steers clear of typical melodrama, making it a realistic depiction of the game. The commendable effort by Jadeshaa, is ably supported by the creative inputs of Tharun Kishore Sudhir.

The film set between 1994-95 tells the tale of Manohar K aka MK (Sharan) and his students. Living in Mysuru, he develops a great bond with his guru (Dattanna), but leads a carefree life. After much persuasion by his guru, he joins as a PT teacher in a school at Bettadapura. While the job was just a means for him to earn a certificate, some money, and experience, it turns out to change his life. MK develops a bond with the students of that town, who eventually get trained in the game. The turn of events comes in the form of Rudrappa (Apurva Kasaravalli) who seeks ownership of the entire village. How MK along with his students tackles Rudrappa's greed with Kho-Kho and wins over the audience is told with a wave of emotions and a realistic view of the sport.

The first hour introduces us to various characters and the 90s. It establishes the life of the villagers, the condition of schools, and the student's mindset. The second part is where the game of kho-kho comes to the front and gives a realistic depiction of spirited youth life.

The director presents a new perspective on the not-so-popular desi sport. Though the second half is filled with the game, the excellent narrative filled with a competitive atmosphere keeps the engagement factor up. The characters are so relatable and they don't fail to entertain, thanks to the punch dialogues of Maasti. Most characters are etched out well, and the relationship between a teacher and students is well portrayed.

Sharan stands out as MK, in probably one of the best roles of his lifetime. The actor who comes across as a mischievous youngster later becomes a disciplined PT master and makes the audience emotional in the climax. After a long time, it is refreshing to see his makeover with a moustache and it breaks his usual image. While he is the soul of Guru Shishyaru, the film also brings in the different aspects of a teenager's life and the roles played by new talents make it relatable. New talents including children of celebrities: Hruday, Eknath, Surya, Harshith, Rakshak, and Manikanta Nayak, and Asif Mulla, Sambhashiva, Sandesh, Sagar, Rudragowda, Anup Ramana, and Amith B, and fresh faces chosen through auditions, carry the film on their shoulders. Acting by both notable and upcoming actors never goes overboard. The roles played by Dattanna and Suresh Heblikar add value to the film. Mahantesh Hiremath, the sidekick to the hero serves the much-needed support to Sharan.

Nishvika shines as a village girl and has delivered a memorable performance. As a fan of Ravichandran, she also adds a lot of grace and elegance, especially in the song Aane Madi.

Ajaneesh B Loknath's music and Arooru Sudhakar Shetty's cinematography add a lot of value to the film.

Guru Shishyaru is a highly effective film that has a strong message for the students and it is sure to take the adults on a nostalgic trip to their school and college days. On the whole, Guru Shishyaru is a soulful tribute to the the once-famous kho-kho.

'It was a matter of pride to play a forest guard'

...says Sapthami Gowda, who talks in detail about her character Leela in Rishab Shetty's Kantara, and more

A SHARADHAA

SAPTHAMI Gowda got her first big break with Suri's Popcorn Monkey Tiger. Her role as Girija, an extrovert and a role similar to her actual self, in the gangster drama got her a lot of good responses. This bolstered her belief in picking up distinct roles with every film. Now, in her second film, Sapthami will be seen in a rather exciting role of Leela, a forest guard, in Rishab Shetty's Kantara. "I got good feedback for my role as Girija in PMT. However, post the film, I was offered only such roles. In my mind, I wanted to play a role that was completely different, and I am glad Leela came my way," says Sapthami.

Ahead of the release of the film on September 30, Sapthami says Rishab calling her for an audition was a big thing for her, and all she wanted to do was be part of his vision. "Post-PMT, the lockdown kept us all home. During that time, I was doing a documentary on Karnataka tourism, and a picture of mine caught the director's attention, and he called me for auditions. He first briefed me about the role and gave the references to Kantara, and that was definitely a selling point for me," says Sapthami.

Sapthami Gowda

When asked about the best and toughest part of being part of Rishab Shetty's directorial, Sapthami says, "Everyone in the film, including Kishore, Achyuth Kumar, and Pramod, are fine actors. The rest of them came from a theatre background. I was just a one-film-old actor. I felt it would be tough to match up to their standards. But I liked how Rishab put me through a workshop before casting me. In fact, he finalised me only after I understood Leela, and was aware of the authenticity of the coastal culture, and had a hold on the dialect. I'm glad I never let Rishab down."

It is not often that we see a forest guard being portrayed on screen, and Sapthami exudes pride in playing such a role, especially in just her second film. "Leela's character has a unique graph. Her character refers to the first woman officer in the 90s, who was recruited as a forest guard," says Sapthami, adding that Leela helped her have a better understanding of the forest, and its inhabitants. "I got to meet the officer when I was shooting. I felt proud wearing the uniform, and that is one thing I have taken back home as a memory. I haven't even washed the uniform, because there is a lot of connection with the marks," she says.

Sharing that working with Rishab was a golden opportunity, Sapthami says that Hombale Films' involvement was the icing on the cake. "I came onboard Kantara mainly because it was a Rishab film. The involvement of a big production house like Hombale Films was a piece of surprise news to me. Everything about Kantara was a blessing in disguise. I can get a variety of roles in my career, but the role of forest guard will also remain special, and I'm glad that I was destined to be part of such a role," she signs off.

Rhea Seehorn to star in Vince Gilligan's upcoming series

CE FEATURES

RHEA Seehorn, who was last seen in Vince Gilligan's Better Call Saul will reunite with Gilligan again for the AppleTV+ series. Rhea Seehorn won a nomination at the 2022 Emmy for her performance as the attorney Kim Wexler in Better Call Saul. She will reportedly play the lead in the as-of-yet-untitled series.

Apple has bought the series and is currently developing two seasons, reports suggest that the series would be a grounded, genre drama. Credited as a writer and showrunner, Gilligan will also executive produce the show under his production company High Bridge Productions.

Following the overwhelmingly positive ratings for Gilligan's last two projects Breaking Bad and Better Call Saul, there was high demand for his next project, which started a bidding war between streaming giants and studios. The bids for the project have reportedly soared up to $15 million until Apple stepped in to buy the series for their streaming platform. Details regarding the rest of the cast and release plans are yet to emerge

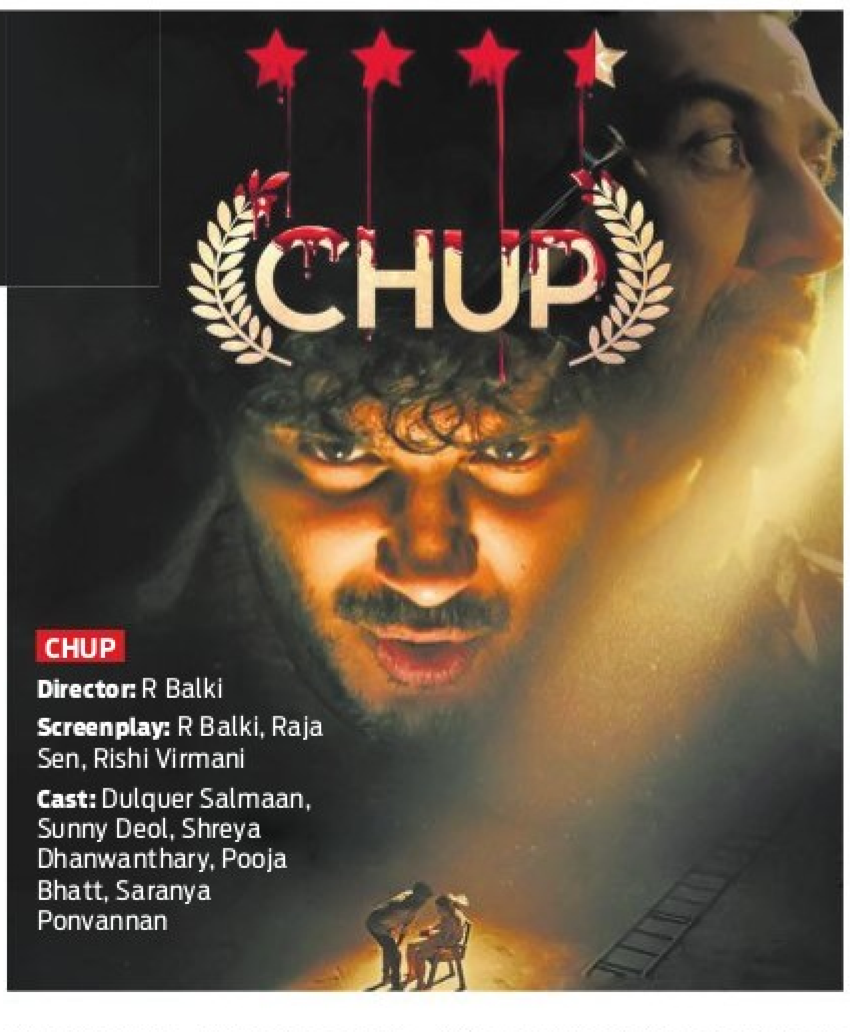
THE NUTTIEST R BALKI FILM—IN A GOOD WAY

SHILAJIT MITRA

R BALKI'S Chup unfolds in an alternate universe where film critics call the shots. I'm not kidding. This is a world where film critics wield tremendous, impossible power. They're capable — or so the film will like us to believe — of great cultural influence, making or breaking movies with a withheld half-star here or an effusive headline there. This is all, of course, an exaggeration. "Who would kill a film critic?" wonders Sunny Deol's investigative cop at one point. The sad (yet wholly realistic) answer is that no one, absolutely no one would kill a film critic. We don't matter and that's just the way it is.

Sunny is fantastic in the new movie. I had a blast watching him keep his hair on and solve crimes diligently (It's worth the Rs. 75 on National Cinema Day ticket price alone). Stroking his chin, scratching his beard, Sunny pieces together clues instead of, you know, beating them out of people. He's investigating a spate of murders that have rocked Mumbai: the city's finest film critics are falling. The killer (whoever he or she might be) isn't playing around. He's murdering them in gruesome, painstaking detail. This is death by wordplay. Writing "the first half stays on track…", for instance, lands one dead critic on the railway tracks.

In a parallel storyline, far from all the violence and gore, newbie entertainment journalist Nila (Shreya Dhanwanthary) is falling for reclusive florist Danny (Dulquer Salmaan). Their budding love story—get it?—plays out in the streets and bylanes of Bandra. The eminently Catholic neighbourhood is nicely captured —Danny cycling down the famous zig-zagging Bandra steps is a neat idea—though the overall bluish colour grade makes everything look dull. Meanwhile, any proof of Nila's gullibility lies in the 'Woody Allen is innocent' quote hanging on her wall.



CHUP
Director: R Balki
Screenplay: R Balki, Raja Sen, Rishi Virmani
Cast: Dulquer Salmaan, Sunny Deol, Shreya Dhanwanthary, Pooja Bhatt, Saranya Ponvannan

Chup, with its tagline of 'Revenge of the Artist', is also meant as a tribute to Guru Dutt. 'Yeh Duniya', 'Jaane Kya Tune Kahi' and 'Waqt Ne Kiya' play on the soundtrack (the two original songs, 'Gaya Gaya Gaya' and 'Mera Love,' aren't much, though it's nice to see Swanand Kirkire share a lyrics credit with Kaifi Azmi and Sahir Ludhianvi). Guru Dutt's seminal Kaagaz Ke Phool (1959) is referenced as an example of critics sounding the death knell of a great artistic voice. "You critics are killers"—Zenobia, a criminal psychologist played by Pooja Bhatt with bad teeth, says. Yet this is a shallow assessment of Guru Dutt's legacy. Dutt, for all his heartbreak and acrimony over his rejected masterpiece, continued to act in films till the early 60s. And isn't Kaagaz Ke Phool all the richer for its initial dismissal, since it also tells the story of a shunned and forgotten filmmaker?

RATING
3/5

Indeed, Balki (with co-writers Raja Sen and Rishi Virmani) seems to want to have it both ways: sympathizing with the obscure artist while extolling the virtues of fair and unbiased criticism. It doesn't matter. I, for one, don't watch serial killer movies for deep insights about life and art. I watch them for the thrill, the chase, the cheesy yet entertaining genre beats. All of Balki's films are essentially comedies, and the same is true of Chup. Three critics stand around at a compatriot's funeral. "There's a screening at 6," one says. "Isn't it tomorrow?" asks another, clearly debarred from exclusive preview shows. The made-up film names are equally hilarious: Ding Dong, Pani Pani Re, Kalinga: The War is Not Over.

Sunny's cool demeanour, lest fans be upset, is broken by sudden flashes of anger ("I feel like killing somebody!" he shouts in frustration in one scene). Dulquer effortlessly accommodates dark shades in his shaggy romantic lead. The 'Is he, isn't he?' portions of the film clearly bring out his best. He's helped, in no small part, by Shreya, who's become Hindi cinema's go-to girl for earnest journalist types. "One day, one day," she sighs, labouring over an interview while the cooler cats in her office go out for reviews.

Just let it go, friend. Just let it go.
